

CAPTAIN INCH TELLS OF DISASTER AT SEA

DOES NOT GIVE CAUSE

CHIEF OFFICER REPORTS AT 7 A. M. THAT FIRE IS BELOW.

LIFE BOATS ARE PROVISIONED

Commander of Doomed Vessel Describes Arrival One of Rescuing Craft.

New York, Oct. 14.—Captain Francis Inch, whose steamer, the Voltorno, was burned at sea with the loss of 136 lives, told his story of the disaster tonight. It is a plain seaman's tale, but in it, line by line, the horrors of the disaster and the terrible ordeals through which passengers and crew passed are brought out all the more clearly, perhaps because of the directness and sympathy with which the story is told.

From its beginning, where the outbreak of the fire which spelled the doom of the Voltorno, is recorded, the narrative runs without the apparent omission of any salient fact, but one to the point where the blazing ship was abandoned, last remaining passenger taken off and the captain and what was left of the crew boarded the awaiting Kronland.

Captain Inch, however, does not say what caused the fire, reporting simply that the chief officer advised him at ten minutes before 7 o'clock the morning of October 9 of its existence below and that five minutes later the flames had burst through the forward hatch and were rapidly spreading.

Although all possible measures at once were taken to subdue the fire, the captain's story shows that it was even then too late to save the watch below. The men were trapped in the forecastle and burned to death there, their fellow sailors helpless to aid them.

Explosions Amidship.

Then came explosions which wrecked part of the midship section of the steamer. The situation was plainly becoming desperate. The call for help by wireless had gone out as soon as the flames shot through the forward hatches and the crew was doing its utmost to stay the progress of the flames until assistance should come.

It looked then as if there was no possible chance to save the steamer and although the seas were running heavy, the captain had boats provisioned and swung out. "Boats Nos. 1, 2 and 3 were smashed," is the simple way Captain Inch describes the first result of the attempt to launch the life craft. But Chief Officer Miller's boat got away and although she capsized, throwing everybody out, she eventually righted herself and Miller and several of the crew got aboard her.

Another boat, described as No. 6, commanded by Fourth Officer Linsley, also got away filled with steerage passengers. Captain Inch knew nothing of the fate of these boats and so far as is known no one else does. Although a widespread search has been made for them by steamers that were on the scene shortly afterward and others notified by wireless, no trace of them has been discovered and they probably are lost with all on board.

Arrival of Rescuing Craft.

Captain Inch described his arrival, one by one, of the rescuing craft, summoned by the wireless operators who worked until 11 o'clock at night, when the fire had progressed so far that the magazine on the bridge, containing signalling rockets and lights, blew up, carrying away the aerial apparatus and compelling the wireless men to cease their efforts.

The Voltorno's master covers in a few words the progress of the fire through the night and how, when the rescuers came up and had failed, because of the heavy weather, to get boats to the burning liner, some passengers jumped overboard and were picked up by the steaming craft.

By midnight the fire had worked its way aft, but this direful news was kept from the passengers, the captain says, and there was no panic.

Fearful that the fire might burst through the after deck before daybreak and transform the entire steamer into a mass of flames, the captain

Another Complaint Is Made Against Miss Sturtevant

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Another informal complaint against Miss Mabel Sturtevant, University of Missouri graduate, who is accused of using the mails to defraud society women and collect money for the Red Cross, was received by United States Commissioner Lewis P. Mason, signed by Geraldine Allen, 1337 West 114th street, New York City, who charges that in the defrauding of the like money she had in the work.

Miss Allen states in her letter that she has written Miss Sturtevant more than twenty times in an unsuccessful effort to get her money back.

Miss Sturtevant was arraigned before Commissioner Mason today and her case continued ten days by agreement.

Florida Now Wants Alien Land Laws

Washington, Oct. 14.—Representative Frank Clark of Florida today addressed a letter to Governor Park Trammell urging him to call a special session of the Florida legislature to pass a law that would prohibit Japanese and "people of like races" from owning land within the state. Mr. Clark said he was actuated by reports that Japanese had been acquiring property in his state. "Japan is looking for more territory," he wrote the governor. "It is her purpose to colonize a large part of Mexico and it is also her purpose to locate within the borders of continental United States great numbers of thousands of thousands of Japanese as we will permit, her ultimate purpose being war with this country."

600,000 Fire at Dallas.
Dallas, Oct. 14.—A $100,000 fire loss was had in Dallas at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning, when a building at the northeast corner of Commerce and Field streets partly burned. The heaviest loss was the Dealey Realty company.

ATTEMPTS TO PROVE JEWS TORTURE

Kiev, Russia, Oct. 14.—At the continuation today of the trial of Mendel Hellas for the alleged murder of the boy, Andrew Yushinsky, the prosecution concentrated its efforts on an endeavor to prove that the Jews practiced "ritual murder" or "Christianity," by the testimony of the archimandrite, Automonius. He is of Jewish descent, but was baptized when 10 years old. He resides in the Kiev monastery.

The archimandrite carried two documents relating to "ritual murder" in the eighteenth century and asked that they be incorporated in the records of the trial. The request was refused.

Replying to questions, Automonius declared he knew of Christian children having been tortured by Jews. He said:

"From my childhood my masters and teachers warned me not to have relations with Jews, because they tortured Christian children." He cited several instances. "Once," he said, "a

UNITED STATES RESENTS HUERTA ASSUMING BOTH THE EXECUTIVE AND THE LEGISLATIVE POWERS

Two Notes Sent to Mexico, One Strongly Phrased By Secretary Bryan—Diplomatic Relations Practically Broken Off

Washington, Oct. 14.—The United States government today informed Provisional President Huerta that it looked with abhorrence and amazement upon his assumption of both executive and legislative powers in Mexico and that in view of his course could not regard as constitutional the elections planned for October 26.

Two notes were indited, one strongly phrased and written by Secretary Bryan inquiring about the safety of imprisoned members of the Mexican congress and the other drawn in forceful language by President Wilson himself and said to constitute practically the last efforts of the Washington government to deal with the Huerta authorities by diplomatic means.

The negotiations through John Lind had progressed to the point where the endorsement of Federico Zamora for the presidency as meaning the elimination of Huerta and where it was confidently hoped that a fair and free election would be held October 26. Now, however, President Wilson has made it clear that the Washington government had with the events of the last few days—the imprisonment of the deputies and establishment of a dictatorship by Huerta—lost all hope of seeing a constitutional election held by the Huerta regime.

The steps taken by the United States were formally communicated to all foreign governments. No further negotiations were planned through diplomatic channels and it would not be surprising if John Lind, who has been waiting at Vera Cruz to observe the manner in which the Huerta officials carried out their promises, should return to the United States at once.

Huerta's Audacity Astounding.

Huerta's decrees proclaiming himself as in charge of the department of interior administration, finance and war were received here today and the text given out at the state department. The documents were read at today's cabinet meeting and members of the cabinet expressed themselves as astonished at the audacity of General Huerta. They were agreed by Mr. Wilson of the nature of the two communications sent to General Huerta through Charge O'Shaughnessy and all voiced approval of the vigorous representations. The cabinet meeting was about to adjourn when press dispatches announced that General Querido Moheno, Mexican minister of foreign affairs, had characterized the American communications as "intemperate."

Official Washington tonight waited the formal reply being drafted by the Huerta administration. Charge O'Shaughnessy reported that he had conveyed both communications and had been assured with respect to the imprisoned deputies that no violence would be done them but that they would be tried for sedition.

It is the second note of the American government which is said to be only 150 words in length, practically breaking off negotiations with Huerta, which is believed to have prompted Foreign Minister Moheno's description, "intemperate."

Administration officials hold that with most of the members of the Mexican congress in jail, a prominent member of congress who dared to

SPENCER IS TAKEN TO WHEATON FOR TRIAL

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Henry Spencer, who has "confessed" to a score of murders, was taken to Wheaton, DuPage county, tonight, where he will be tried for the murder of Mrs. Rexroat, on September 28, which crime led to his arrest. He was taken on the same train on which he and Mrs. Rexroat rode when she went to her death. He was recognized and identified by Conductor Walter J. Blaser.

APPROVES PROPOSED NEW HAVEN BONDS

New York, Oct. 14.—The public service commission of Massachusetts has approved the proposed issue of $57,552,400 of bonds by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, according to announcement made by President Elliott of the road here this afternoon.

400 PERISH IN MINE DISASTER

Cardiff, Wales, Oct. 15.—A disaster, probably the greatest in the history of South Wales coal fields, whose annals are bristling with terrible catastrophes, occurred yesterday through an explosion in the Universal colliery near here. Shortly after the day shift of 931 men entered the mine an explosion shattered the works.

NOTHING NEW IN BROWN CASE

Dallas, Oct. 14.—The present grand jury expects to complete its investigation into the mysterious murder of Miss Florence Brown of last July 28, within the next few days.

Dallas, Oct. 14.—The present grand jury expects to complete its investigation into the mysterious murder of Miss Florence Brown of last July 28, within the next few days.

Injured in Dallas Auto Smash.
Dallas, Oct. 14.—E. E. Keel, 825 N. Bishop avenue, Oak Cliff, was perhaps seriously injured last Monday when his automobile was struck by another and turned over. Mr. Keel was pinned underneath the machine. He was injured about the head and shoulders and internally. Mrs. Keel was thrown out of the car, but was not injured.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Henry Spencer, who has "confessed" to a score of murders, was taken to Wheaton, DuPage county, tonight, where he will be tried for the murder of Mrs. Rexroat, on September 28, which crime led to his arrest. He was taken on the same train on which he and Mrs. Rexroat rode when she went to her death. He was recognized and identified by Conductor Walter J. Blaser.

BOISQUE'S LUCRETIA BORGLIA CONFESSES FOUR MURDERS

Chronology of Etheridge Case.

January, 1913—Ellen Walker West Etheridge becomes the mistress of Looney Ranch, Bosque county, by marrying J. D. Etheridge, the proprietor, a widower with eight children.

June—Two of the eight children of Etheridge, 2 and 10 years, respectively, die suddenly; deaths attributed to acute indigestion.

October 2—Three children of Etheridge—Oscar, 5 years; Richard, 9, and Pearl, 7—fall to the floor in convulsions after eating dinner. Family physician saves life of the little girl, the two boys dying.

October 5—Mrs. Etheridge arrested and lodged in jail at Meridian by Sheriff H. W. Randall, on charge of double murder. Sheriff finds package of arsenic exalix in the woman's trunk.

October 6—Viscera of two dead children sent to Baylor university for chemical analysis, with white powder.

October 7—Prof. S. P. Spencer, analytical chemist, reports to the Bosque authorities nature of poison in package.

October 10—Chemical analysis of viscera discloses presence of arsenic exalix.

October 14—Mrs. Etheridge confesses she poisoned the first two children with concentrated lye and the second two with arsenic.

READY FOR KATY SUIT BANKERS FOUND GUILTY

STATE HAS TAKEN ALL TESTIMONY THAT IS DEEMED NECESSARY.

Nichols Says Not Likely Case Will Be Dropped—Commercial Clubs Don't Understand.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 14.—The state has taken about all the testimony it deems necessary in the suit proceedings instituted against the Katy railroad. At this time the record comprises seven sections of testimony of from 350 to 400 pages each, making a total of 2,500 pages of approximately 600,000 words.

Assistant Attorney General Luther Nichols returned today from Walnut Springs, where he had been conducting the hearing on behalf of the state. Mr. Nichols said:

"Until the case comes to trial there is enough testimony at hand for the state. I feel well pleased with the progress of the case, and there is no indication at this time that the suit will be dropped. The several commercial clubs who drafted resolutions asking that the suit be dismissed do not understand the case."

On October 30, Judge George Calhoun of the Fifty-Third District court will hear the law points in the case argued by the state and the defendants.

Besides the four men whose trial ended today, C. A. Bonds of Kansas City, J. M. Sims of Memphis, W. F. Churchman of Indianapolis and G. F. Toenges of Chicago were indicted charged with misuse of the mails as officers of the trust company which turned its affairs over to the All Night and Day bank of this city, of which Hendrey was president, after an existence of about two months. Bonds, who went to Canada after his conviction some months ago, on a similar charge as an officer of the All Night and Day bank, did not return for trial in the case against the trust company officials.

The charges against Churchman and Toenges were dismissed on motion of United States District Attorney Caser Todd, who held that the evidence against them was insufficient to warrant trial.

Sims pleaded guilty when arrested last year and is now serving sentence in the United States prison at Atlanta, Ga. He appeared as a witness for the prosecution of the present trials.

Today's conviction Hendrey was found guilty last year of using the mails to defraud in connection with the operation of the All Night and Day bank and sentenced to five years in imprisonment, the sentence being held in abeyance pending the outcome of an appeal.

It was the contention of the government that the American Trust company was closely allied with the All Night and Day bank of this city, which in turn was alleged to have been of a half dozen or more short-lived night and day banks established in several cities of the west and southwest. In previous trials it was alleged by the government that the organization of the banks was part of a widespread scheme to defraud.

Germany May Have Exhibit.
Washington, Oct. 14.—Encouraging reports are coming to the state department from Germany regarding the prospect of a considerable representation of German art, hygiene, city building, transportation and general industries at the Panama-Pacific exposition, Ambassador Gerard and Consul General Thackara, at Berlin, believe that it will not be advisable to send official agents of the government to Germany to secure exhibits.

Harmless, Weak-Minded Girl.
Mr. Turner, who is now in Waco, says he has known Mrs. Etheridge for more than a quarter of a century. She is the daughter of an itinerant preacher of the "Hardshell Baptist" persuasion, according to Mr. Turner. Her father is now living in Matagorda county, Texas, engaged in farming.

Ellen Walker Her Maiden Name.
He was never regularly ordained, but was known for many years in Hill county as "Parsen" Walker. The accused stepmother of the Etheridge children was Ellen Walker when she married a farmer named West, who died some years ago. After the death of her first husband she returned to her mother's home in Abbott and lived with her until her death.

Are to Close Hearings October 25.
Washington, Oct. 14.—If necessary the senate banking and currency committee will hold night sessions to hear all witnesses listed to discuss the administration currency bill in order to close the hearings October 25. The committee today revised its list of witnesses and agreed to hear H. Parker Willis, who acted as expert to the house committee during consideration of the bill; National Bank Examiner Stark, in charge of bank examination in New York; representatives of the National Chamber of Commerce and a delegation of country bankers from Minnesota, in addition to witnesses already scheduled. When the hearings are closed the bill will be taken up for amendment. The committee worked late this evening getting views of country bankers. After members of the delegation appointed by the conference of country bankers at Boston last week had been heard in criticism of parts of the bill, Robert H. Tremaine of Ithaca, N. Y., and James H. Perkins of Albany, N. Y., presented the views of the New York State Bankers' association. They generally endorsed the bill but urged that the bankers be given representation on the federal reserve board.

E. S. Larabee and E. S. Moses, representing country bankers of Kansas, corroborated generally the views of the country bankers' delegation.

Multi-murderess Well Known in Abbott and Hill County—Regarded as Weak Minded by Neighbors.

Mrs. Ellen Walker West Etheridge, who is in jail at Meridian awaiting a preliminary examination on the charge of murdering her two stepchildren, has made a confession to the authorities of Bosque county which, if it is not based upon the hallucinations of a diseased mind, classed the former mistress of Looney ranch as a twentieth century Lucretia Borgias.

Confesses Four Murders.

The woman has confessed, according to County Attorney H. S. Dillard, that she not only poisoned the two children, Oscar and Richard, who died in convulsions Oct. 2, but that she is also the murderer of the two children of Etheridge, 2 and 10 years old, respectively, who died last June. The authorities say that the woman was insanely jealous of the children of Etheridge, her second husband, because she believed he was lavishing too much attention upon them and neglecting her. So she planned to remove them, after she had brooded for a long time over her imaginary wrongs.

Killed First Two with Lye.

In the alleged confession Mrs. Etheridge said she killed the two children last June by administering concentrated lye to them in food. The two who died in convulsions Oct. 2 she killed with arsenic, the poison which Prof. Samuel R. Spencer found in the viscera of the dead children when he made a chemical analysis at the instance of the Bosque county authorities.

A package of the poison was found in the woman's trunk when it was searched by Sheriff H. W. Randall, who arrested her. She told the sheriff at the time of her arrest that the white powder in the package was medicated salts. Later she said she did not know what the package contained; that it had been given to her to keep by her mother six years ago.

She Kept to Herself.

Mrs. Etheridge is 47 years old, of short, stout build and has heavy, dull features. Although she had been living for many months in Bosque county, she was personally known to but few of the people of the community. She kept to herself, rarely mingling with the women of the neighborhood.

Insanity Probable Plea.

In view of the statements made by friends of the family of the accused woman, it is believed that her counsel will submit a plea of insanity when she is arraigned on the charge of murder. Another warrant will be issued charging her with the murder of the two children who died last June. It is probable that the inquiry into the marital experiences of Mrs. Etheridge will be resumed, the authorities having been informed that she was three times married before she met Etheridge.

Persons who have known the woman for many years, however, assert that the statement regarding her multiplicity of husbands is but one of her own wild hallucinations. They declare that she was married only once before last January and that her husband's name was West. He died about two years ago.

Sympathy for Accused Woman.

Mrs. Etheridge has been of feeble mind since her birth, according to J. J. Turner, a well-known resident of Abbott for many years.

Mr. Turner, who is now in Waco, says he has known Mrs. Etheridge for more than a quarter of a century. She is the daughter of an itinerant preacher of the "Hardshell Baptist" persuasion, according to Mr. Turner. Her father is now living in Matagorda county, Texas, engaged in farming.

Ellen Walker Her Maiden Name.

He was never regularly ordained, but was known for many years in Hill county as "Parsen" Walker. The accused stepmother of the Etheridge children was Ellen Walker when she married a farmer named West, who died some years ago. After the death of her first husband she returned to her mother's home in Abbott and lived with her until her death.

remarkable for her strength and endurance and her ability to do more work in a day than any man in the neighborhood.

After the death of her mother, two years ago, she left Abbott, and her former neighbors heard no more of her until she married J. D. Etheridge, the Bosque county widower.

Married Second Time Last January.
She went to Bosque county to work as housekeeper for her brother-in-law, Mel Malone, whose place is but a short distance from the Looney ranch on which Etheridge lived. She was married to Etheridge in January of this year. There are scores of people in Abbott who will testify to her belief that Mrs. Etheridge is a mental incompetent. Mr. Turner says.

Sympathy for the Woman.

There is abundant sympathy for the accused woman in Hill county, this old acquaintance of the Walker family declares, for the reason that those who know her history are convinced that if she is guilty of the crimes charged against her she is mentally irresponsible. Her old neighbors in Hill county, however, do not believe Mrs. Etheridge committed the double murder. They are inclined to the theory that the children were poisoned by some secret enemy of Etheridge living in Bosque county.

Was a Faithful Daughter.

The reluctance of the Hill county folk to accept the theory of the Bosque county officers, according to Mr. Turner, is due to the fact that the devotion of Ellen Walker to her father and mother when she lived in Abbott was regarded as something almost sublime. The girl was one of the main supports of the family. To earn money for her mother, after her mother and father separated, Ellen went out to work for the neighbors. Every penny she earned for years was brought by her to her mother. No work was too hard for her.

Many Ready to Testify.

She frequently toiled in cotton fields because she could earn more money for her mother as a cotton picker than when she was employed to do housework. The people who knew her as a young girl in Hill county evince the keenest interest in the outcome of the prosecution in Bosque county. It is likely that some of the old friends of the Walker family will volunteer to testify as to the mental condition of Mrs. Etheridge when she is called for a preliminary hearing before the county magistrate and later when the case is presented to the grand jury.

SAYS CURRENCY BORN IN CAUCUS

HEPBURN DENOUNCES MEASURE AS CRADLED IN POLITICS.

LEADERS DEFEND THE BILL

Owen, Glass and Bulkley at Conference of Academy of Political Science, Clash With Bankers.

New York, Oct. 14.—Declaring that the Owen-Glass currency bill, now before congress, was "born in a caucus and cradled in politics since its inception," A. Barton Hephburn, chairman of the Chase National bank of New York, attacked today the Wilson administration measure. Mr. Hephburn was one of the speakers at the national conference on currency reform which opened here today under the auspices of the New York Academy of Political Science. At the conference leading figures in the administration fight for the currency bill clashed with bankers opposed to the measure.

Senator Robert L. Owen, sponsor in the senate currency bill; Representative Carter Glass, who led the fight for the bill in the house, and Representative Robert J. Bulkley, of Ohio, member of the house committee on banking and currency, defended the administration plan. Arthur Reynolds, of Los Angeles, president of the American Bankers Association, and Mr. Hephburn spoke for the bankers opposed to the bill. Mr. Glass was unable on account of illness to attend the conference and the speech he had prepared was read into the record.

The debate revolved largely about the wisdom of compelling national banks to join in the proposed system of issuing their charters and asserting that designation of members of the federal reserve board by the president would open the way to political domination of the banking business.

No Fear of Political Control.

"I am not especially fearful of political control," said Mr. Hephburn, turning aside from his prepared speech to emphasize his point. "I am not especially fearful of incompetent control. But I am not especially fearful of political control. I am not especially fearful of incompetent control. But I am not especially fearful of political control."

Mr. Bulkley said the time had come when the bankers of the country must submit to government control as the railroads had done. Representative Glass held that the real reason for the bankers' opposition was the fear of an immediate loss of profits. Senator Owen insisted that the banking system as a whole should be supervised directly by the government, in the interest of all the people instead of being in the hands of bankers for their own profits. He was asked whether he had considered advocating the appointment of federal board members for life so that they would be above the suspicion of political control.

"In our country men live too long for that," the senator replied, smiling. He said the federal board members should be appointed for long terms, possibly ten or twelve years, and that for these positions there should be selected men who were the equal intellectually of the men who sit on the supreme court bench.

Amendments to the bill were suggested by Prof. O. M. W. Sprague of Harvard university, Prof. E. M. Kemmerer of Princeton university, Alexander D. Noyes of the New York Evening Post and H. Parker Willis of the Journal of Commerce. He also made addresses which were followed by a discussion.

Tomorrow's session, which will end the conference, will be held at Columbia university.

DALLAS TAX RATE IS $1.93

Remains Same as Last Year—Collection Begins—Amount Due Is $2,100,000.

Dallas, Oct. 14.—The city tax assessment was made by the city commissioners in regular session Monday afternoon. This action was in order, the tax rolls having been completed and approved.

The rate was the same as that of last year, $1.93 on the $100. The items of tax are as follows:

General fund $68
Garbage fund 10
Interest and sinking fund 40
School building fund 25
Park fund 10
Street fund 25
Lighting fund 67

Total $1.93
The collection of taxes has begun and has already reached the sum of $100,000. The total amount due the city is estimated at $2,100,000.

Criticism Causes Death of Judge.

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 14.—That criticism of his decision in which he held that the omission of the word "the" invalidated a criminal indictment hastened the death of the late James B. Gantt, judge of the Missouri supreme court, was the declaration of former Judge John F. Phillips of Kansas City at the memorial exercises for Judge Gantt held by the state supreme court today.

Judge Phillips said the decision of the omission of the word "the" was a good law, as the constitution requires that all indictments close with the words, "Against the peace and the dignity of the state."

UNITED STATES RESENTS HUERTA'S NEW RULE

Speak adversely to the Huerta administration still, notoriously concealed and the congress dissolved, it is impossible for the civilized world to believe that the Huerta group was capable of establishing or maintaining constitutional authority in the south. The republic also felt that the Huerta officials no longer are deserving of such diplomatic relations as hitherto have existed.

No Evidence of Drastic Measures.

As yet there is no concrete evidence that the Washington administration intends to use drastic measures. The white house has discouraged the heads of the army and navy from taking any steps that would give an alarmist impression.

Some officials say they would not be surprised if the failure of the Huerta government to comply with promises made to John Lind would cause the Washington administration to consider throwing its support to the constitutionalists in the north of Mexico. This step, but informal, would mean the embargo on arms and many senators think the constitutionalists soon would triumph if they had such assistance.

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan hitherto have opposed such a step, but informal communication. Within the last two weeks with the constitutionalists has indicated that the Washington administration is scrutinizing the constitutionalists' movement to determine what are their purposes and whether they could establish constitutional authority in Mexico.

Developments in the situation are expected to follow quickly, as the rejection in advance of election planned for October 25 is likely to draw out a new expression of policy by the United States.

It is confidently expected here that foreign governments generally will follow in the lead of the United States in their steps and action. Some of them have explained to this country that their recognition of Huerta followed their interpretation of Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson's congratulatory speech to Huerta as forecasting recognition by the United States. This, incidentally, Henry Lane Wilson's resignation as ambassador to Mexico went into effect.

Situation Not Affected.

Mexico City, Oct. 14.—The status quo will not be changed by the latest exchange of notes between Mexico and the United States, according to information given out at the Mexican foreign office late tonight. The diplomatic communications between Washington and Mexico growing out of the dissolution of the Mexican congress and the imprisonment of the deputies have been the subject of intense interest today. Neither the American charge d'affaires nor the Mexican foreign office has made known the tenor of the exchange.

Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the charge, appearing deeply concerned, made visits to the foreign office and the president's office and for several hours this afternoon, after the meeting of the cabinet. Foreign Minister Moreno locked himself in his office and refused to receive callers. His secretary said he was busy preparing the reply which Mexico is to make to the Washington memorandum. Later, Senator Wilson said to the newspaper men that he had finished his task, but that before making public the character of the reply it must be submitted for further scrutiny by the ministers who were summoned together at the president's office in the evening.

The most startling rumor which became current was that the American charge was to be given his passports and that the Mexican government regarded the attitude of the United States as such that it could no longer continue to receive a Washington representative.

It was also said that President Wilson's personal representative, John Lind, now at Vera Cruz, will be asked to leave Mexico.

Moheno Denies.

Senor Moheno verbally denied that there was any truth in these rumors. "My government has no such intentions," he said. "We have no information as to what the government of the United States intends, but so far as my government is concerned, Mr. O'Shaughnessy may remain and will receive every consideration."

While the attaches of the embassy are dumb respecting the contents of the Washington memorandum, it is learned from other sources that the American government has notified President Huerta that, owing to the high-handed manner in which the Mexican congress was suppressed, no free elections were possible and that no president elected under the conditions existing would be acceptable to Washington.

DELAY LIKELY IN SULZER VERDICT

ASSEMBLY MANAGERS ASK THAT COURT RECOMMEND NEW ARTICLE OF IMPEACHMENT.

IF TESTIMONY NOT RELEVANT

Charges Leave No Room, Is Contention of Defense, for Certain Evidence Admitted.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 14.—The possibility of an indefinitely long delay in reaching a verdict as to the guilt or innocence of Governor Wm. Sulzer loomed up at his impeachment trial today. This was suggested when counsel for the impeachment managers asked that the court recommend to the assembly the bringing of a new article of impeachment in the event the testimony of Duncan W. Peck, superintendent of public works, and Henry L. Morganthau, ambassador to Turkey, should be found not relevant to charges contained in the present articles.

Whether this testimony was relevant to article 4 which charges the governor with suppression of evidence before the Frawley investigating committee was the subject of debate today in executive session and an adjournment was taken until tomorrow morning. The executive session will be continued tomorrow and on the result of the court's deliberations will depend the question as to whether it will proceed to vote now or wait the action of the assembly in the question of bringing the suggested new article of impeachment.

Should the latter course be adopted, the progress of the trial will be a matter of speculation. The question would at once arise whether the necessary majority of the assembly to vote the new article could be obtained. This question, it was suggested tonight, would likely be affected by the fact that many assemblymen who voted for the present impeachment articles would be candidates at the coming election and the probability that politics might be injected into the assembly's action to an acute degree.

Must Give Sulzer 20 Days' Notice.

Even should it be possible to muster enough votes in the assembly to adopt the new article at an early date, the constitution requires that the governor be given twenty days' notice before being called upon to answer.

The proposed amendment further differed from the original in that it specified that the governor attempted subornation of perjury, a felony, whereas the original merely charged that he "used threats and menaces," a misdemeanor.

Outside the courtroom much speculation was indulged in as to the significance of the proceedings. Some held that the question at issue was solely one of legal technicalities and however decided the fact remained that the Peck and Morganthau testimony, undisputed by contradictory evidence, was in the record. Should the trial be placed here, there being no article, as the new record, the Peck-Morganthau testimony considered there is a possibility that the case might fall outside of the constitution.

No Action on Ryan Testimony.

Although the testimony of Allan Ryan that the governor sought political influence to stop the trial was placed before the court for its consideration when the question was first raised yesterday by Judge Miller, no action was suggested in regard to it today.

Katy Officials and Telegraphers Are Mute—Dermody Says Is Belligerent or Fight.

Dallas, Oct. 14.—The exact situation as regards rumors of a proposed strike by the telegraphers of the Katy railroad cannot be learned. Officials of the Katy declare there is nothing to give out that will be of interest to the public. Officials of the telegraphers refuse also to go into details.

Speaking of the matter Tuesday, J. J. Dermody of the telegraphers said: "Our policy has been one of open work from the start. It settles or fight for the Katy and I guess the fight is generally known to those who have read the papers."

"Though the matters to be discussed between the committee and the railroad have not reached a final stage, I think a few matters could be cleared up with a word of explanation. It is really due to the public."

"This matter is strictly up to the management, for our position is clear. We want a reasonable working day instead of thirteen hours each day; increased pay instead of a steady reduction such as has been going on in years; a set of working rules that will allow us to treat with the road in the matter of obtaining and holding positions."

the dispatch to Mexico of warships by Germany, the foreign minister said tonight he had no official information. He regarded it as extremely improbable that the greater men would change her policy, citing the recent dispatch of a new ambassador, Sir Lionel Corden, to the Mexican capital, which step he considered would not have been taken had the British foreign office had such intentions. The warships, if they came, he thought, would make merely visits of courtesy.

Actress Tells Secret

A Well Known Actress Tells How She Darkened Her Gray Hair and Promoted Its Growth With a Simple Home Made Mixture.

Mrs. Blanche Rose, a well-known actress, who darkened her gray hair with a simple preparation which she mixed at home, in a recent interview at Chicago, Ill., made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1-4 oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the required shade. This will make a gray haired person look 20 years younger. It is also fine to promote the growth of hair, relieves itching and scalp humors and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair."

RESIDENT ENGINEER TESTIFIES

Former Employee of Reservoir Construction Company of Fort Worth Tells of $16,000 Overestimate.

Fort Worth, Oct. 14.—A jury to try W. J. George, superintendent of the Underwood Construction company, charged with conspiracy to swindle the city, was selected in Judge Swayne's court this morning. Taking of testimony began this afternoon.

Jack Stange, former resident engineer in charge of West Fork Reservoir construction, testifies this afternoon that he made over-estimates amounting to $16,000 on the work. On cross-examination he said he could not be certain they were over-estimates as estimates were not approximate.

He said that Oct. 4, 1912, Charles McCormick, president of the Underwood Construction company, gave him $50 after a conversation Sept. 1 and said he was worth $250 a month to him but that he did not want to take him from his present work. George, he said, was present and McCormick instructed him to pay Stange $100 a month, saying that he would take care of it in St. Louis.

Cross-examination brought out that approximately $212,000 worth of work had been done then upon which the city retained 15 per cent and that at the time of the last estimate approximately $312,000 worth had been done, upon which the city retained the same amount. An offer to show the city was protected also by a bond of $150,000 was ruled out.

Stange said he overestimated $2000 September 28, 1912, and $1500 apiece on six other estimates.

During the examination of the panel Attorney McLean announced that the contention of the defense would be that George never got a dollar wrongfully from the city and that the Underwood Construction company did not and that he and officials of the company never conspired to get it.

At another time he said a point at issue was whether the city was trying to beat these people or these people trying to beat the city. He asked the prospective jurors if, as city taxpayers, they would be affected by the fact that this suit might affect the "big suit" in the federal court or that will be there in a few days.

BREATHE FREELY! OPEN NOSTRILS AND STUFFED HEAD—END CATARRH

Instant Relief When Nose and Head Are Clogged From a Cold—Stops Nasty Catarrhal Discharges. Dull Headache Vanishes.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dizziness and headache disappear; in the morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed, nostrils closed, hawking and blowing Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous droppings into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

This Leaves the Skin Smooth and Hairless.
(Boudoir Secrets.)
The electric needle for removing hairy or fuzzy growths is fast falling into disfavor among beauty specialists, because quicker and better results are obtained with the aid of a little powdered delatone and water. This is applied on the hairs not wanted and in 2 minutes rubbed off, and with it comes every trace of hair. The skin should then be washed to remove the remaining paste and it will be left smooth and spotless. Buy delatone in original packages only.

MRS. J. FINLEY SMARTT AT HOME ON THURSDAY

As introduction to her household guest, Mrs. Andrew Perry of Rockdale, Mrs. J. F. Smartt of Provident Heights is issuing invitations for Thursday afternoon between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock.

HEBREW REST MEETING HAS BEEN POSTPONED

Owing to the funeral of Mr. Levy, the meeting of the Hebrew Rest Cemetery society which had been announced for Tuesday, was postponed. It will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

MRS. R. S. LAZENBY FOR MOTHERS' CLUB

To represent the education phase of woman's work in Waco, Mrs. R. S. Lazenby, as chair of the federal mothers' club, is getting ready a float for the parade on Woman's Day.

NUMBER TWO SOCIETY TO HAVE SOCIAL SESSION

On next Friday afternoon the members of Number Two society will be welcomed into the home of Mrs. F. C. McConnell, on South Fifth street. This is Mrs. McConnell's courtesy to her society, and the occasion will serve to enlist new members into the winter work.

JEAN SHERWOOD SCHOOL TO BE IN WOMAN'S PARADE

The Mothers' club of the Jean Sherwood school, with Mrs. Perry Green president, is preparing for very creditable representation in the parade on Woman's Day. The club will place a decorated float, something suggestive of school. Following will be a long cortege of vehicles containing the mothers. The chairman of the float is Mrs. Justan of Fifth and Speight.

MRS. CHARLES HAMILTON INTERESTS WACO FRIENDS

On Tuesday the post from Taylor brought invitations to the marriage of E. W. Province of Baylor university. The bride, Miss Mary Mary Eugenia Powers of Taylor, following the ceremony a reception will be held in the bride's home. Between the interim and the first of November Mr. and Mrs. Province will take their wedding trip. Upon coming to Waco they will take residence at 2113 Ethel avenue, Provident Heights.

WOMAN FOOD INSPECTOR PROPOSED FOR WACO

Mrs. R. S. Lazenby is in receipt of a letter from State Commissioner Abbott inquiring what the women of Waco desire as regards a woman pure food inspector for this city. Inspectors are now serving under the appointment of Dr. Abbott in several Texas towns, and the move has been effective of much good. Mrs. Lazenby has written Dr. Abbott for more of detail as regards his plan, and when his reply is received something may be done.

MRS. CLARA BURKE WILSON PASSES AWAY IN DALLAS

Mrs. H. B. Mistrout reached Dallas by sudden call, and is now in New Iberia, La., the old home. This is occasioned by the passing away of the sister, Mrs. Clara Burke Wilson, since her marriage Mrs. Wilson has resided in Dallas, but, in her girlhood days, frequent visits here formed a large acquaintance. Mrs. Wilson had undergone an operation for appendicitis, and the reports were quite encouraging for several days. But the worst came, and the last mark of respect and affection has been paid. Mrs. Mistrout is expected home with the last of this week.

THE WOMEN MARSHALS ARE FALLING INTO LINE

Only one thing will prevent fifty women marshals from appearing in the parade on Woman's Day. This will be the failure to secure a horse. So, should any have the horse and will loan it, Mrs. H. A. Weddington, Seventeenth and Blair, would be pleased to hear. These fifty young women will be uniformed, quite jauntily so, and they will make one of the most acceptable features in the parade. In addition, the Mary West chapter will have a platoon of "Daughters of the Confederacy" to lead their division. The Shakespeare club will have Joan D'Arc and Margaret of Anjou to head their float. So, the horsetack feature in the parade will be prominent.

MAKE NO ENGAGEMENTS FOR SATURDAY AFTERNOON

It is hoped that no woman will be detained from the general meeting which Mrs. J. W. Bass is calling for Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. This is for the Cotton Palace movement, to hear reports from all the chairmen, what they have done and what they desire to do; especially, is it hoped that individual women who will cooperate and enter the parade be present to tell of it, in order that others may catch their enthusiasm, and that all may measure the extent of the parade. Every organization, club, fraternal and such, is requested to have a representative, so that all may hear what is being done. Remember, it is every woman in Waco to the library on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

CARDS COME FROM ALBANY FOR WARD-WEBB WEDDING

Many friends in Waco received on Tuesday: Mr. and Mrs. Sam Webb invite you to be present at the marriage of their daughter Camille Webb to Mr. Joe Lette Ward Wednesday evening, November the fifth, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, eight o'clock at the Matthews Memorial Presbyterian church, Albany, Texas.

THE SHAKSPERE CLUB MEETS TO RESUME ITS STUDY

On Monday afternoon the members of the Shakspeare club met to attend to details for resuming the winter study. Mrs. J. W. Bass was in the chair for her new administration, while Mrs. Leslie Stearns kept the minutes. The first business was to select a delegate for the State Federation in Corpus Christi. Mrs. J. W. Bass was elected, with Mrs. E. M. Dotson her alternate. Next the club discussed taking part in the Woman's Day parade. There was not a dissenting vote. Mrs. A. C. Patton was made chairman of a committee to represent the club creditably. The suggestion made by Mrs. J. M. Hale will form the nucleus around which this committee will work. Mrs. A. C. Patton was elected chair of the new administration, and Mrs. James Wright treasurer. Owing to the distraction of the Cotton Palace, the club voted to have four afternoons with lantern pictures and descriptions of the famous pictures from the Old World galleries. Julius Caesar will be taken up as soon as the Palace closes. The Mesdames O. H. Weddington, D. P. Wallace and O. K. Stearns were elected new members. Other applications are to come with the next session of the club. Mrs. John Wright returned to former membership.

MISS BETTIE MAY HILL WINS DISTINCTION IN PARIS

Friends at home are beginning to feel that they have sent to Paris a young woman who is making her mark. Withal, both the parents and Miss Hill are modestly withholding the honors which are coming to their talented daughter. This daughter herself pleads that little be said, lest the home friends come to expect too much. But, the story cannot be suppressed when one of Waco's own leaves home alone, takes her abiding place among fifty other American girls who are studying art and music in Paris, and selects a voice teacher for a year. No less a man than De Resque, attracted by the possibility in Miss Hill's voice, agreed to become her tutor. Soon finding the susceptibility of the voice, he transferred Miss Hill to his own master, an old voice teacher, now 80 years of age. On this week has brought the news that Miss Hill has been offered by this influential master, grand opera engagement for May, June and July. He added, in making this offer, "Little girl, you are only to be heard for your golden voice to do the rest." It is not decided at all by Professor and Mrs. Hill that they will give consent for their daughter to accept the engagement. But, whatever may be the outcome, Waco is to be congratulated upon sending forth into the world of music such a talented young woman.

WATCH FOR COTTON PALACE DIRECTION FROM MRS. BASS

Amid all their interest over their parade, many women are making too great a demand upon those who are at the head of the various departments. Just wait, be patient; Mrs. Bass knows what she is doing; so do her sub-chairmen. All things, you know, will come right.

ARE YOU WATCHING EVERY NOTICE WHICH PERTAINS TO WOMEN'S PART OF THE COTTON PALACE AND PROCEEDING INTELLIGENTLY?

We hope you are. The unpleasant news has come that Mr. and Mrs. Norman Shumate propose an early removal to California.

If you drive to the fountain on the square and find the flow of water inoperative, just step into the city hall and instruct the janitor to take the water key and increase the flow. The fault is his if the water is scarce. Think how many thirsty horses you would relieve by doing this.

There are two things which we do not quite understand; these are in presenting a picture, should it be framed, and in presenting a new book, should the leaves be cut? There is difference of opinion. Others feel that the gift is incomplete without being made ready come to him who waits. First of all, do not ask questions now about the order of the parade, where you will take station, where you must report to form line, and so on. This is all being worked out, and as soon as all entries are made, the announcement will come, as to the very spot upon which you must stand in order to join in the parade. Mrs. Weddington, as chief marshal, will give instructions to all her aids, and these in turn will instruct the entries. So, simply wait. The idea now is to have all organizations act, and decide what they will do for representation. When this is done, the next step is to make decorations and otherwise get ready. This is all. When it is found just how many and how the entries will be made, and this will be done through the heads of each organization, the outline will be perfected. The details are many, and the women who have consented to serve are more than busy; so, save them all you can. Trust to their executive ability to have it all come out creditably. Watch the Morning News for what is going on, and for instructions, and act accordingly. For instance, if you are to enter a jar of preserves, do not need to telephone the committee now what to do. Get your preserves ready and watch The News until the chairman of the culinary committee makes her announcement. Heed this. That is all.

Society Notes.

Mrs. Cliton DeBellefleur, until recently Miss Marcelle Flanagan, is sending post cards to friends at home which tell of the wonders she has included in her wedding journey. The last came from San Francisco, and told of having been over the Grand Canyon and through the Petrified Forest.

With today, the William Waldo Cameron residence closes for several weeks. During this time Mr. and Mrs. Cameron enjoy the early season sights in the east. They will include a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baird at Buffalo.

Suppose we pause in our mad rush towards Cotton Palace season to play a few Halloween pranks; at least, to read Bobbie Burns' verses on this holiday.

The low back chair which sat before the dressing table has been replaced by the wooden stool.

It might not be a pleasant journey, but really the women of Waco would find out a few things about the food they eat, should they take an alley walk instead of the front sidewalk in the downtown district or about the corner groceries.

The Euterpean club feels that it is indeed fortunate in having acquisition this season in such voices as those of the Mesdames Gaylord Belmont and L. V. Miller, who sang on the first program.

It is not being too worldly to see that the church pulpit has fresh flowers every Sunday. There is never a place where flowers are not appreciated.

Are you watching every notice which pertains to women's part of the Cotton Palace and proceeding intelligently?

We hope you are.

The unpleasant news has come that Mr. and Mrs. Norman Shumate propose an early removal to California.

This is the Season of Pretty Ribbons

The cunning designers of lovely ribbons seem to have outdone themselves this fall; for never before have ribbons seemed quite so pretty, or the patterns so varied. This store's Ribbon section has, of course, every new design that has appeared this season.

One that you'll particularly admire is the wide tapestry variety; it is a 7-inch gros grain ribbon, a blend of many rich colors in unique Oriental figures. The price is $1.25 per yard. Another likable one is the new series of Roman stripe patterns; these are 5 to 7 inches wide, gros grain or satin, with cross-stripes of varying widths in a well-chosen rotation of colors. They are $1.00 and $1.25 per yard. And there are all kinds and all widths of new moires, in black and colors; dozen of new shades and color-combinations—wouldn't you like to see them? You will be welcome at any time.

You Never Saw a Prettier Scarf

Than those we are showing this week. There are a score or more of fascinating creations in this display, priced all the way from $1.00 to $18.50. Here's one of filmy chiffon, sprinkled with glittering silver spangles and fringed with silver beads; the price is $7.00. And here's another, made of soft, changeable silk—a dozen ever-changing shades of violet, purple, heliotrope and lavender; on the silken fabric is applied a flower-design of narrow braid of shade to match. The flower-petals are cut out and filled with dainty lace. This is priced $6.00. And many, many others—come and see them.

For hanging. As regards the book, some feel that, to cut the leaves is to signify that the book has already been read and given as second hand, so to speak. Others say, to cut the leaves and thus make ready for reading is to show a kindly impulse and thoughtfulness for the friend to whom the book goes. The writer is not ready to settle the question. It rather appears to her as the case of, "Who shall decide when doctors disagree?" By the way, who first made that remark? We rather think it was our satirical friend, Alexander Pope.

INTERURBAN TRAFFIC HEAVY.

Exceeds Fondlest Anticipations, City Ticket Agent Williams Says.

T. H. Williams, local agent of the Southern Traction company, said yesterday that traffic over the interurban line to date had been considerably in excess of the expectations of the company. Although no definite figures were given, it is understood that the management is well pleased with the initial business. A little trouble was experienced in the first two days as to keeping up to schedule time, but yesterday the cars were approximately on time, and it is hoped to get the system running with perfect smoothness in a few days more.

Masterpieces of literature are now in the Victrola records, as well as musical numbers. Poe's Raven is one of the latest.

IF CONSTIPATED OR BILIOUS "CASCARETS"

FOR SICK HEADACHE, SOUR STOMACH, SLUGGISH LIVER AND BOWELS.

Get a 10-cent box. Take a Cascaret tonight to cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous, upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't Notice to Subscribers.

Delivery routes in the city of Waco are in the hands of independent carriers, who buy their papers at wholesale prices. Subscription accounts are due them, not the Waco Morning News. They are under heavy bond, not only to give the best delivery service, but to pay for their papers each month. Their remuneration is the difference between the wholesale price and the retail price which they receive from subscribers. This margin of profit is such that they can not afford to extend credit except month by month. They are not required, and are advised against, delivering the paper to anyone who does not pay in accordance with the above subscription terms. These carriers are all earnest, hardworking young men and they will appreciate any courtesy shown them.

The Morning News should be delivered throughout the City of Waco by 6:58 a. m. and subscribers failing to receive the paper at this time will confer a favor by phoning the circulation department, both phones 1132, and a copy will be sent by special messenger.

THE SOUTHERN COMMERCIAL CONGRESS.

The fifth annual meeting of the Southern Commercial Congress will be held in Mobile, Ala., October 27 to 30, and Atlanta Journal says this will be the most important and the most interesting event in the history of that useful organization. "In former conventions the congress has stressed the need and the opportunity of developing the South's material resources, its soil and forests and streams and mines, and of upbuilding its educational interests. In the forthcoming convention particular emphasis will be given to the question of practical means for utilizing the trade advantages soon to be offered the South by the opening of the Panama canal." The Journal thus summarizes the program:

Other subjects of current interest will be discussed. President Wilson will deliver an address on rural credits and several members of his cabinet will speak. The American Commission of Agricultural Co-operation, which spent several months this year in Europe studying farm methods and particularly farm economies, will make a report. The matter of chief consideration, however, and about which other topics will be grouped, is the relationship of the great canal to Southern industry and commerce.

The congress will thus have a definite bearing upon the one great practical issue in which every State and every city of the South are now peculiarly concerned. From its deliberations there will doubtless evolve some adequate plans under which all parts and all interests of this section can co-operate for their common advantage in the new commercial era that is at hand. It need scarcely be added that every Southern city should be well represented at the Mobile convention and also in the subsequent trade expedition to Latin-American countries which will be conducted under the auspices of the congress. The South must prepare for the opening of the canal, if it is duly to enjoy its share of opportunity; and the congress offers direct means for united, effective preparation.

We Envy You, Indeed.
I could be within my own entity a dozen different people in a day, and live a life thronged with these companions or rivals—"More of Prosperine," by Maurice Hewlett.

You would make an excellent writer of excellent editorials. Mr. Hewlett, if even in childhood you were blessed with such a marvel of imagination swinging about the heroes of your classics. To be fair, your press commentator must put himself in the place of the person or personage he discusses, that he may know whether praise really is deserved, or blame. His difficulty is in switching from the viewpoint of one public man to another's viewpoint, in treating of different situations—that is why too many saturate their comment with too personal opinion. There could be no suspicion of companionship or rivalry, though, if the comment were to be wholly unbiased, analytical and dependable.

With delegations of business men coming to the Cotton Palace from our Gulf coast, and with especial communication proposed between St. Louis and Waco to fame "the South's most unique exposition," the name and merit of the city and its great annual event will be spread strikingly in many directions.

Can Waco Afford Cheap City Management?

Through the Waco Tribune, Mr. A. R. McCollum calls for continuation, or resumption, of the two-thirds of valuation basis for taxation. He urges that there may be a case of extra-revenue hereafter, in view of the steady appreciation of Waco's realty.

The editor of the Times-Herald, Mr. George Robinson, proposes to the general (charter) committee that there be an executive board of five members elected to constitute our city government, the commission; and that each member receive $1,000 a year salary.

It is easily understood, then, how the average citizen might be in a quandary as to whether Waco is a millionaire and in a fair way to have more millions, from taxation of rich, fattening valuations, than its government can handle, more revenue than would be just to the taxpayers—or whether the government of this city is and will remain, shall we say a "pauper"?

But whether Waco's finances are in excellent shape or perilous, Waco can not afford a cheap city government. If the city should be momentarily straitened, certainly it needs experts in charge of its affairs. If the city flourishes, if revenues are fat and the need of expenditure thereof on public improvements is unceasingly pressing, certainly Waco needs expert business men in charge of its affairs.

Pay of $3,000 for the mayor and $2,500 for each of four commissioners, annually, is not sufficient pay for first-class business men who will handle only the affairs of a great municipal corporation. But let us face practicalities and facts. Waco has not had, and will not get, first-class business men for the office of mayor and the commissionships, at every election—not by a long shot—whether Waco pays them $2,500, $3,000 or $7,500 each. Not if these first-class business men are required to devote all their time to the people's business—the business of a great municipal concern. And this should be required.

The aldermanic form of government was driven out in many progressive American cities because the taxpayers wanted to be rid of the enduring machine-political methods; rid of ward factionalism, jealousies as to the distribution of funds for public improvements; rid of cumbersome election methods; rid of the lack of responsibility for the handling of public moneys and affairs that was a result of lack of centralization of authority.

Commission government was voted in because, in the essentials of the theory of this system, it is business government, business system; the provision of a capable directory to handle the huge affairs of the stockholder-electorate. It is sought to business-systematize the direction of that big corporation, the city; to fix responsibility, to employ expert spenders and auditors—and economists. Through this, to speak plainly, it is also sought to do away with leaks, graft, corruption and the detrimental incumbrance of political beneficiaries in public office. It is even sought to eliminate ring politics—the "machine." These ambitions have by no means been realized in every commission-governed city. There is still much of the experimental.

We advocate salaries of at least $3,000, for mayor, and $2,500 for each commissioner because we think the citizens will not pay higher salaries. We believe in following out thus far the quintessential principle of commission government—business system—and requiring mayor and commissioners—the directory of the city corporation—to devote all their time to the affairs of a concern of upwards of 30 millions of dollars valuation of property. We know, flatly, that $1,000 a year will not buy a director of this business who ought to be entrusted with the handling of it, and who will apply all his time to it. It will not buy, infallibly, a second-rate business man.

For, in plain English, a man who has succeeded and is succeeding in his own business will not sacrifice that business for $1,000 or $2,000 a year paid him in consideration of devoting all his time to the city's business. A man who is netting upwards of $5,000 a year for himself and his family by diligent attention to his own enterprise—that is, a "successful" business man—will not work for any person or any concern "for nothing." We are not pessimists, but we take no stock at all in this surviving blast of the "honor," "glory" and "patriotism" of the public service. The instances of wholly disinterested, wholly sacrificial, wholly patriotic public service are so rare that the discovery of one excites emphatic public comment—on the occasions of death or resignation of such an incumbent. How many citizens of Waco have the idea that their fellows will offer for the mayoralty or a commissionership out of sheer desire to serve the public, to their own honor and glory and as a prompting of their patriotism?

Thus we do not expect to get the best of this city's business men to be the executive board in the city hall and direct the affairs of a corporation of some 30 thousand stockholders with some 30 millions of property, at compensation of $3,000 or $2,500 a year. But we expect to get the best business experts we can at such a figure with the demand that they devote their entire time to the affairs of so great a concern—a concern that is growing larger, prospering more largely and needing a larger share of conscientious governance with the passing of every month. And this will be far better than paying $1,000 a year for makeshift directors.

Thus far we believe in following the principle of commission form. Argument to the contrary? Has any citizen seen a company of truly representative men, business men successful to a degree entitling them to the classification of business experts, hastening to announce for city hall offices, or responding to the People's call to such offices—at $1,000 the year salary and the opportunity to prosecute their own affairs with city hall as their "side issue"? We think the higher salary plan, the full time plan, would work a distinct improvement in the personnel of our commission, and, therefore, an improvement in every phase of the system of government, every phase of operation of every department of that government.

Our successful business men have among them rare exceptions who are willing to accept city office at salaries ranging from 100 per cent to 500 per cent less than they could earn at their private concerns, and devote all their time to public interests. We can by no means count on these exceptions. The history of this city, in this regard, is no different than the history of any other American city. If Waco wants city government cheap, it will get a cheap city government. If Waco does not consider it has reached that stage of development, as a "city," entitling it to an exclusively serving board of directors for its business, a board that will give the business constant attention, it will get cheap city government.

We urge on the charter committee and the citizens the fact that Waco has arrived; its status is city status. It must have a management that is constantly in the business office; it must have adequate public facilities. A capable commission, the most capable commission that can be named at the most liberal terms the voters will offer, is the prime necessity among these facilities. A real city must pursue the methods of a real city. It must pay for its managers, it must pay for fire protection, it must pay for sufficient, capable police service.

The question is, is Waco of so little importance as a business enterprise it can afford a cheap management?

Piffle.
There is a circular out, purporting to come from the "College Men's League," in behalf of Mr. McCall's candidacy for the mayoralty.—New York Mail.

We hope any "College Men's League" fabricated for the benefit of any candidate merely because he's a college graduate will get what it deserves from the press, the voters—and its own members. Fitness of the man for political office includes, of course, education, but there is no occasion for any candidate and his crowd to stand on their toes and elevate their noses and flaunt their sheepskins. The Roosevelt club at Harvard gathered Republicans and the Taft club at Yale attracted Republicans—and that's all there was to it. Alumni Democrats voted for the other man. And all the alumni of all the colleges in the land have no place in our scheme of government as a political entity.

MR. WILSON DID WELL.

Within the week since the president wrote to the Washington Post in denial of the Post's quoting of him to the effect that he had termed those who do not support him and his legislative plans as rebels, not Democrats—averaging that such an utterance is contrary to his thought and character—there has been, of course, the free comment that attends every public act of the executive and many of his personal doings. And it is noted there has been a deal of criticism, in editorial utterances, of the president's brief letter. It may not justly be concluded that this criticism is wholly due to the fact that a newspaper's action was involved. The guild spirit by no means runs to such blind loyalty. The comment, on an average, has taken the position that the president's "unusual" manner and form of presenting a denial probably was neither good policy nor successful method of getting the result he desired to get. There is the usual noting of the president's exalted position and some deprecation for the fact that the head of the nation should consider it within his dignity to send out a formal denial of newspaper report and comment.

We think the president did well, both as to the manner of his denial and in conceiving that harm might be done if the error went uncorrected. For the Post is a strong newspaper and exercises strong, widespread influence. There is enough honest division of opinion—and surely too much difference of purpose—in connection with the course of the currency bill before congress without the executive being misrepresented as to his attitude toward legislators opposing this measure. None who has studied closely the president's habits of utterance, comment on the doings of congress, is ready to believe he termed his own party's objectors to this measure "rebels, not Democrats." It is easily seen how a statement to this effect in a newspaper of high repute might fan the flame of opposition and even move disruption and personal antagonism, to the detriment of the party's need and plan of union and harmony. The president's letter was strong, dignified and timely. Indeed, it was an unselfish sacrifice of the personal feeling he must have had that a denial of this sort was unusual, as coming from a president, and would certainly be misinterpreted. It is gratifying, though not surprising, to learn the president can cure errors of this sort without the weak, unjust way of calling the department of justice to his aid. And, we all know, that weak, unjust way has not been altogether unemployed by certain of Mr. Wilson's predecessors in the presidency.

You Betcher.
Was there no authority to intervene in behalf of two decent and big old men like Mr. Plank and Mr. Big Six Mathewson?—New York Sun.

There was—there were. Several authoritative slugs and a few authority-careless errors. Only, on Saturday there was more slugging authority positively in Mr. Plank's favor and all the errand crew deserted Mr. Mathewson. So Mr. Plank was the more fortunate beneficiary; only a mite of authority helped Big Six on Wednesday. Decrepit as he was, he helped himself.

We are willing to concede that counsel before the high court of impeachment are better lawyers than are we if they succeed in proving that the testimony of Ryan, Morganthau and Peck was not admissible in corroboration of the impeachment charges against Salzer. The mere layman, with a remnant of regard for common sense, doubtless would consider that if a man attempted to suppress information of certain acts he had committed those acts.

Eddy, Moody and Bruceville want to take a shot at the pool halls. None objects to their regulating this, as well as their other local affairs. We merely express the hope that their interest in the forthcoming election will in no wise detract from their interest in the somewhat more important concern of a Temple-Waco interurban. It is pleasing to note that Eddy is responding strongly on this latter project.

Without going into the merits of the mayor's opinion concerning the attitude of the "old" telephone company toward the growth of Waco, it would be interesting to read that opinion when set forth beside a copy of the franchise granted the company by the city heretofore. It would also be interesting if the public could be presented with an opinion as to whether the city commission has inquisitorial powers.

Mr. G. W. Stough sends a telegram to the mayor that work on the natural gas pipe line from Mexia to Waco is being "pushed." Good news. This city will welcome report of the work being actually "pushed" by muscle power as well as the use of electricity in giving notice of the "pushing."

Senator Lewis goes the Undermyers and Henrys several better in his discussion of the opposition to the currency bill. "Invisible board of control" has that sound which should move the appointment of another money trust investigating committee!

It is a question whether relief or disappointment is in the ascendant for the d. o. p. was permitted a feeble flutter of wings over the first session of the Tennessee assembly. Another good news story gone wrong.

It is hoped the fact that the county jail will be properly heated this winter will not greatly increase the county's outlay for hospitality to those who less nachully can't stand the cold.
Messrs. Bell, Ray, Snead and Lackie are requested to "go after" a reunion of Texas Rotarians for the Cotton Palace—strongly. A State meeting of this order, that is steadily gaining strength in the larger communities of Texas will do much to stress the fact that Waco's business is big enough and is increasing rapidly enough to warrant the activity of such a club in its midst—a club that is first, last and always concerned with the prospering of local trade.

Col. Dorothy Dix is enlightening the female young of the nation on, "Mate Hunting." If we wanted to be unkind we would remind her of her sometime advice against "man hunting." But consistency is too rare a bird to warrant this hunt, these days.

The United States, France, Great Britain, Italy, Belgium, Austria, Germany and Switzerland are essaying the only "conquest" of the Mediterranean that would possibly be allowed by at least five of these powers—a balloon race.

Apparently the story of the loss of the Volturino is yet to be really told. "Unknown origin," the report on the fire, does not listen well and the world is awaiting sounder account of the details of the cause of loss of life.

Lorena has Waco's hearty congratulations on the acquisition of a big steel standpipe and arrangements for an abundant water supply. It is an example other towns in this region will do well to follow.

With the White Sox taking the intercity series and the Giants champions of the National league, Mr. McGraw may have some excuse for taking those teams around the world, after all.

Texas Viewpoints.

Hope for Hill.
Hillsboro Mirror, appropriately to its strong, progressive, continual plea for good roads in Hill county, "plays up" strikingly the fact that a good roads election—$250,000 of bonds—will be held in justice precinct 1 on November 15. There are upwards of 800 petitioners in that precinct, for the election. Hill county—its citizens admit and motorists through Central Texas deplore—is in the bad roads category of Texas districts. The criticism lately by Pathfinder Ferguson, and emphasis on that criticism by Texas newspapers most concerned in the success of his enterprise, has brought home definitely and finally to Hill county citizens their need of improved highways. It is not a matter merely local to Hill county; it concerns that county's opportunity to participate in the benefits of the proposed transcountry road systems and it is, therefore, a matter of distinct interest to all Central Texas. We think the bond issue will be voted; if it is not, it will not be the fault of such a factor for the county's advancement as the Mirror has become.

Big Truth Briefly Told.
The penniless sick man is not a tennis ball to be knocked back and forth from one town to another. Dallas Times Herald concludes sensible comment in commendation of the principle of "hospital day" proclaimed by the acting governor. "Neither is the city a place where the halt, the lame and the blind from the four corners of the State can be assembled for free treatment." This may start Collier's again on the theme of Texas's reluctance to care for the indigent tuberculars from other States—but we'll take a chance. The chief duty of caring for the poor defective—physical and mental—is, of course, on the State government. The demand for more and larger State asylums is an old cry in Texas. The demand for more hospitals and tuberculosis sanatoria is comparatively recent. Texas some day must meet this demand; it better begin now. It would be splendid if cities, and religious and fraternal organizations, would go in more for charity hospitals and homes in our cities, as is done great-heartedly elsewhere. Texas's city hospitals are by no means model, or even adequate in many instances; some cities have no public hospitals. Still the poor sick and crippled, the penniless victims of accidents also, increase month after month and become public charges. Care of the blind, the deaf, the mute, the demented, the consumptive and the epileptic is but half the problem. There should be more places for the penniless sick maintained by the State, the cities, the churches and by endowment. (N. B. Neither is this an "experiment").

Simple, Sage Prescription.
There is all reason for Brownwood Bulletin's boast that "Brownwood during the past year has been freer of flies than during any year of its history," for the Bulletin explains that "this was due to the sanitary condition of the town and the systematic burning of all trash as it reached the dump grounds." Let us make local application of some of the "don'ts" that brought Brownwood to the high place of Texas's "cleanest town."

Failure to Provide Funds Costly to Beekeeper.
College Station, Tex., Oct. 14.—That the failure of the state to provide funds for eradicating the foul brood disease has already cost the beekeepers of Texas thousands of dollars is the statement of Wilmon Newell, state entomologist at the experiment station, Agricultural and Mechanical college. In a letter to Mr. Newell a prominent beekeeper of Floresville, Tex., says:

"Last spring and summer bees were selling at from $6 to $8 per colony, but since it has become generally public that the legislature made no appropriation for eradicating the foul brood disease and that we have now no protection for the industry against this disease, the price has dropped to $4.50

Knowing something of Brownwood's methods moved by civic pride, we venture the assertion that no Brownwoodite would dare to throw fruit peels and cores on the sidewalks, or any matter that might decay and attract the flies. It is a very simple prescription the city may take for its health and appearance—but the serious hitch is that the police-physicians are not always there to see that the prescription is faithfully followed.

Merely Another Instance.
Houston Chronicle wants to know "if Mexico is as peaceful and submissive as the Huerta government claims, why should General Maas wish to travel from Eagle Pass to Laredo through United States territory?" Chronicle's "if" in connection with any claims put forth by Huerta and his, is a most undeserved compliment. Maas knows exactly what's what in North Mexico as well as in the capital. Mexico is quite as peaceful as Huerta's statements of its condition are credible. And none has slipped a rib hastening to do anything on Huerta's say so.

CAP. INCH TELLS OF DISASTER

and crew worked hard through the small hours making rafta for use in an emergency requiring quick abandonment of the steamer. But the night passed without the happening Captain Inch feared, and wind and sea having moderated, the transfer of the passengers to the steamers hovering about the blazing Volturmo was begun at early dawn and accomplished in less than three hours without mishap. By that time the fire was eating up through the after hatches, however, and captain and crew left the doomed steamer to her fate.

Captain Inch's Story.

Captain Francis Inch of the Volturmo sent his story of the disaster by wireless tonight from the Kroonland, on which he is being brought to this port, to the officers of the Uranium line here. Captain Inch's narrative reads: "At 4:30 a. m. October 3, 1913, latitude 43 12 north, longitude 34 51 west, fire was reported through No. 1 hatch, setting fire to the forecastle and all deck fittings. I slowed the ship down and kept her before the wind to enable us to put the steam extinguishers in operation, also three fire hose from deck connections. The flames were gaining rapidly, reaching the height of the foremast light and imprisoning the watch below, who were burned to death in the forecastle.

"A series of explosions occurred, wrecking the saloon and hospital amidships, the compass and steering gear also being damaged by the explosions. I gave orders to get help by wireless as soon as the flames burned the hatches.

"It seemed being impossible to save the ship, I had boats provisioned and swung out. The ship was rolling heavily. Boats Nos. 1, 3 and 5 were smashed, but No. 2 was lowered in the water with cabin passengers and stewards. In charge of Chief Officer H. P. Miller. After this boat left the ship, she capsize, throwing her occupants into the water. She afterwards righted herself and several of the crew got back into the boat, the chief officer being one of them. No. 4 boat was lowered and got away safely, filled with steerage passengers in charge of Fourth Officer Langsall. No. 7 boat, on being lowered, was caught under the stern of the ship, the boat being completely wrecked.

Flames Apparently Subdued.

"Meanwhile the chief engineer, two seamen and myself fought the fire and apparently subdued the flames. I gave orders to send no more boats away, as I had received word from the Carmania that she was hoping to be with us by 11 a. m. Life belts were served and put out to each passenger. The passengers now became calmer. Food was served out to them.

"At 9 a. m. the bunker was found to be ablaze. It being impossible to stop the fire in the bunker, on account of gases, the watertight doors were closed and water poured down the No. 2 hatch onto the fire, but it was gaining all the time.

"At 11 a. m. the Carmania arrived and lowered a boat, but could not reach the ship on account of high seas. Asked Carmania to look for No. 2 boat. The steamship Seydlitz arrived and lowered boats, which could not reach us. About 3 p. m. the Carmania returned and tried to reach the ship with life rafts, but all drifted past our bow too far away.

"Several steamers had arrived by dusk. The Kroonland put away boats which made four attempts to come alongside, but were swept away each time.

"At 9:30 p. m. the saloon and chart house were flaming. The deck, bridge and all before the funnel were blazing fiercely. Pumps and dynamo stopped for want of steam. Marconi operators worked with the accumulators until 11 p. m. when the magazine on the bridge blew up, carrying the aerial away.

"Several boats by this time were lying off the ship and induced passengers to jump and they were rescued by boats. At 12 midnight, the weather was overcast and squally. Operations were suspended. It being too dark for those in the boats to see. The fire meanwhile worked through the women's stowage to the after end of the ship, but we kept knowledge of this from the passengers, who were very orderly way and there was no panic, women breaking down and crying when help was alongside and all were off the ship by 8 a. m. about 400 passengers. I searched the ship myself and found no one else on board, so decided to abandon her, as the No. 3 hatch was well alight by now, so with the remainder of the crew embarked on the Kroonland.

"Nothing at all has been heard of the two missing boats. Floating vessels were asked to keep a lookout for them.

"I wish to express my hearty thanks and gratitude to the captains of ships who stood by; also to the officers and crews who came to our assistance for their bravery and endurance in their endeavor to come alongside the ship; also to the passengers of the Kroonland for their kindness to the rescued passengers, engineers, crew and myself in fitting out and doing everything for us.

"Following are the names of the steamers that came to our assistance: Carmania, Groszer, Kuerfuerst, La Touraine, Asian, Narragansett, Seydlitz, Minneapolis, Devonian, Czar, Rappahannock, also one other steamer without wireless. The ship was abandoned in latitude 43 30 north, longitude 34 51 west."

"Captain Inch's story came by wireless tonight from the Kroonland, which is bringing him and other survivors to this port. The Kroonland will not reach here until Thursday or later, as she has had a mishap to a shaft, she reported today, and is proceeding slowly. The captain's message was sent to the press through the Uranium Steamship company's offices here, having been prepared and sent for that purpose at their request. The Red Star office is operating in seeing that the captain's story was promptly transmitted.

"It is possible that the total of dead in the disaster may shrink slightly when all lists are tabulated. Today Passenger Agent, Fourth Officer of the Uranium line here said his figures showed that 657 persons sailed on the Volturmo, including twenty-four cabin and 540 steerage passengers and 81 crew. His list showed that the 528 persons had been accounted for leaving 131 on the missing list.

"It was announced tonight that the North German Lloyd steamer, Seydlitz, bearing fifty-four survivors of the Volturmo, will stop at Philadelphia before proceeding to Baltimore and that she should dock at Philadelphia some time Wednesday.

The steamer Groszer, Kuerfuerst, with 105 survivors on board, is due here tomorrow morning. The rescued passengers she carries will be allowed to land without the usual examination at Ellis Island. Acting Immigration Commissioner Uhl having given orders to that effect today. The Red Cross committee will take charge of them.

La Touraine at Havre.

Havre, Oct. 14.—La Touraine of the French line, second of the rescue ships which figured in the Volturmo disaster to reach port, arrived at Havre this morning. La Touraine had forty-two of the Volturmo's survivors on board. On the forward deck of La Touraine when she arrived at the quay was a group of eight children, 3 to 12 years old, who had been rescued from the Volturmo and whose parents had perished or were aboard other steamers.

Two other children with their mother, and twenty-seven sturdy Polish peasants, with three of the crew of the Volturmo, made up the total of forty-two rescued by La Touraine.

Some of the rescued passengers wore their sheepskin coats, while others had been provided with clothing by passengers of La Touraine. The survivors had been well cared for by the officers of La Touraine and had been supplied with small sums of money by the passengers. All the rescued passengers were sent on to Amsterdam.

First Lieutenant Isenle of La Touraine told of the work of rescue.

"The second mate returned with three rescued passengers or his boat would have been overloaded and sunk.

"The other whaleboat, commanded by Second Captain Rousselet of La Volturmo and its crew were calling to the passengers to jump, but none would do so. No other boats were seen at that time near the burning ship.

"Happily, Lieutenant Isenle was able to get clear of the Volturmo with five rescued passengers or his boat would have been overloaded and sunk.

"The other whaleboat, commanded by Second Captain Rousselet of La Volturmo and its crew were calling to the passengers to jump, but none would do so. No other boats were seen at that time near the burning ship.

board, her nose was low in the waves and the waters were breaking over her. The flames lit up the scene. Rousselet's whaleboat ran in close and a hail of human beings fell on it and its crew. Fourteen people were picked up, of whom seven were transferred to the other whaleboat.

Boats Surround Ship.

"By this time it was 6 o'clock on Friday morning and numerous boats from the other ships alongside had been lowered and were around the Volturmo. Another one of our boats took two women and two children from the sea, which had become calmer. The women and children were let down into the water tied with ropes.

"When no more people were on board the Volturmo our boats were taken in. If there had been less panic at the beginning of the fire, many more could have been saved. Unfortunately, two boats launched from the Volturmo were broken up by the seas and it is certain that many were drowned during the night. If the crew and passengers had kept calm everybody might have been saved.

"The doctor, the purser and several officers of the Volturmo were among the last to get into the boats and Captain Inch was the very last to leave his ship."

Friedrich Badtke, a young steerage passenger, was the first person on board the Volturmo to discover the fire.

"I saw smoke coming through cracks in the floor of my quarters," he said, "and I became sure that the hold below was afire. I ran as fast as I could to the deck in front of the bridge. The captain himself was there and I yelled to him in German that the ship was on fire. He did not understand me. I called out again in Polish and then shouted in Yiddish, but still I was unable to make him understand and he sent down a sailor to inquire what was the matter. I led the sailor down to the steerage deck. When he saw the smoke he opened one of the hatches and was met with a rush of smoke and heat. The sailor then returned to the bridge and warned the captain."

Passengers Seem Panic-Stricken.

"All the passengers in the forward steerage had by this time become aroused and every one seemed panic-stricken. I believe some jumped overboard as the result of sheer fright. When the smoke and choking flames became visible there was an excited rush aft and the passages and stairways for a while were crowded with struggling, fighting people.

"In the meantime the captain had given the alarm. The fire crew was manning the fire apparatus under the eye of Captain Inch, who thus was unable for the present to keep order on deck, where the panic-stricken passengers had gathered around the lifeboats in the stern. In the absence of the captain and other officers, who were below fighting the fire, there was much disorder."

The fire seems to have been due to the carelessness of a steerage passenger. Hans Magnus, a member of the Volturmo's crew, said there were frequent violations of the steamship company's strict order forbidding persons in the steerage to smoke.

"The company fined any one smoking $5, as is usual on emigrant ships," Magnus said. "Yet the rules were broken. I have found cigarette stubs and half-burned matches often pushed into cracks or under objects."

"I feel sure that some steerage passenger, when an inspector was seen, threw a cigarette down a hatchway. The fire broke out in a part of the hold where a lot of rugs and other stuff that would burn easily were piled."

Westgard Reaches Baltimore After a 4,500 Mile Trip

Baltimore, Oct. 14.—Having traveled approximately 4,500 miles, mapping out a southern transcontinental route from San Francisco to New York, A. N. Westgard, pathfinder of the American Automobile association, arrived here late today. This is his sixth trip across the continent by motor car. He left San Francisco July 1 and passed through Little Rock, Ark., Fort Worth and Galveston, Tex., and New Orleans before reaching this city. He expects to arrive in New York tomorrow afternoon. Westgard has traveled 68,000 miles in one car.

"The Merry Countess."

It may be provincial in this day and time, or some may call it prudish, but really the ballet in bare legs (and the expression is not a bit more coarse than was the performance) marred the production of "The Merry Countess" at the Auditorium last night. Another marred feature was the entertainment enticed by the crowd in the gallery that continued shrill whistling and loud hand-clapping whenever the curtain was down.

"The Merry Countess" is a tenuous musical play. The leading characters have been well selected for looks and for voice, and there was much entertainment for those who enjoy pretty music.

Mabel Baker, the countess; Carl Haydn, Paule Rippe, Arthur Clough and Dale Winter were the principals in the cast who engaged in solos, duets and trios, and no rendition went unrewarded of its appreciative applause. Mr. Haydn is a fine tenor, has fine appearance and is easily the star of the production, not excepting Miss Baker. Charles Udell and Jack Henderson have the comedy of the piece, both of which are cast for "fat" parts, and it is clean, wholesome, laughable stuff. But the ballet. From hip to ankle it was bare. Attractive half-hose covered the extremities only so far as half-hose will serve as a covering, but above the fringe of the hose to the next fitting trunk that belong to the regulation tights there were perfect rights and shapely legs, presented as true to nature. There were fairy skirts to these costumes, but they are the kind which stand out hoop-skirt fashion rather than of the drop-skirt style, and after the first appearance the small boys in the audience moved to the front row for a better enjoyment of the production. In fact, spectators rather than audience found the greatest pleasure in the play. But there is no Anthony Comstock in Waco or in Texas, and the "true to nature" ballet will make its four uncolored. It leads one who is a "old timer" to believe that John Bell, who ran the old Horseshoe theater on Bridge street thirty years ago, lived three decades before his time because the police exercised a censorship over his place, and there were limitations beyond which he would not dare to go, and his amusement place was never a subject in polite society.

The noise in the gallery should not go unnoticed, and it is about time the chief of police took official action in regard to it. Men and women who pay their money for a pleasant evening at the theater should not be annoyed by the shrill whistling, the boisterous stamping of feet and clapping of hands. The Auditorium is a place of public amusement, and if it is necessary to send a squad of patrolmen to the gallery and haul the offenders to police headquarters in the automobile patrol, the hoodlumism should be stopped. Attention has been called to this feature several times. It is now up to the chief of police.

Salem Tut Whitney.

Songs that possess the proper lilt to make them popular, comedians, vocalists and dancers who are capable of winning applause and recognition anywhere and a production sure to be indorsed as underlined as the attraction at the Auditorium tonight.

The company is the noted "Smart Set" troupe, the offering is entitled "The Wrong Mr. President," and the bright particular star is none other than that irresistible annihilator of gloom, Salem Tut Whitney. This season Mr. Whitney will appear in brand new comedy in three acts with musical trimmings. Whitney is responsible for the book and lyrics. He will have the assistance this year of forty people, including that droll and unctious fellow, Homer Tutt, who next to the star is regarded as the most capable colored fun-maker in the profession. The vehicle is most elaborate and the scenic equipment and other accessories complete in every detail. The organization travels in its own private cars and is managed in a thoroughly up-to-date manner.

Genuine Wild West.

When Miller Brothers and Arlington's 101 Ranch Wild West show comes to Waco tomorrow, Thursday, October 16, the admirers of this typical border exhibition will see not only a greatly augmented show, but they will also be introduced to many new novel features that have been inserted in the performance of the present season.

The 101 Ranch show always wisely steered away from circus features and it has established its reputation as a consistently genuine wild west exhibition. The only departure from this plan in other years has been the band of rough-riding cowboys, and they have justified themselves as a strenuous contrast to the rough-riding of the American cowboys. This season there is another innovation, but it is presented by typical cowboys in their characteristic ranchland costume. This is the game of auto polo which has attracted so much attention elsewhere and which is credited with being the biggest "thriller" of the year. The excitement created by the auto polo game, which is announced, is played "for blood," and in which the frequent overturning of the machines (due to the thrilling nature of the performance) is said to surpass anything hitherto seen in a tent show.

The auto polo, however, evidently is not permitted to interfere with the generous amplitude of the wild west performance, or to detract any of its old time thrills. Scores of cowboys, cowgirls, Indians, Mexicans and other typical wild west people give a performance that is said to be exhilarating in the extreme. There are Indian attacks upon the wagon train of the pioneers, a stage hold-up by outlaws, a round-up with long-horned Texas steers, a buffalo hunt, the capture and punishment of a horse thief, a wrestling match between a cowboy and a wild bull, crack shooting by Sioux and Oklahoma Indian girls, a quadrille on horseback, a troupe of dancing horses and many other features, including an exhibition of bucking bronchos in which both cowboys and cowgirls exhibit their skill and recklessness as riders of outlaw horses.

There will be a picturesque and characteristic parade at 10:30 in the morning. Reserved seats exhibition day will be on sale at Powers-Kelly Drug Store, at the same price as at the camp grounds.

BUSINESS EFFICIENCY EXPERT.

He Delivers Lecture to Sanger Employees on Salesmanship.

An innovation in business methods was in evidence at the Sanger Bros. establishment yesterday afternoon, when, after the closing hour, all the employees of the establishment were assembled and an address was delivered to them by James B. True Jr., a store efficiency expert.

The expert was brought to Waco by the Sangers with a view to giving a course of instruction to the department managers, sales people and other employees of the Sanger store. This practice has been in vogue in the metropolitan cities of the country for some years, but is being introduced here for the first time.

Mr. True will follow up his address to the Sanger employees with a series of printed articles, which will be sent from time to time to the department managers for the instruction of the forces working under them.

Women's Home Mission Meeting.

Washington, Oct. 14.—From all parts of the United States delegates arrived today to attend the thirty-second annual meeting of the board of managers of the Women's Home Mission society of the Methodist Episcopal church, which begins tomorrow and will continue a week.

ASSESSMENT CUT BY THE SOLONS

REDUCTION TO 67½ FROM 75 ON $100 VALUATION IS ORDERED.

AS RECOMMENDED BY MAYOR

Caufield Is Authorized to Buy in at Par and 2 Per Cent Waco 5 Per Cent Bonds.

Reduction in the assessment rate on city property from 75c on the $100 valuation to 67½ was made by the city commission at its meeting yesterday morning.

The reduction is a cut of 10 per cent on the rate. It was brought about on recommendation of Mayor James H. Mackey. The mayor said the tax collector and assessor had expressed the opinion that the large property interests of the city favored the reduction in assessment rate. Whether the reduction in this rate will affect the tax rate is a question the commission has not decided.

To Fix Tax Rate at $150. According to plans of that body, it was proposed to fix the tax rate at $150 on the $100 valuation. In the past it has been $175. The lower rate, however, was figured on the basis of an assessment of 75c on the $100 valuation.

The commission also allowed Tax Collector and Assessor Stribling $1,500 on assessments for the 1913 rolls. Mr. Stribling had figured the rolls on the assessment valuation of the city at $100, and it will be necessary now to go over the roll and deduct 10 per cent from each dollar valuation.

To Buy in Bonds. On recommendation of Finance Commissioner Caufield, the commission authorized him to offer par and 2 per cent interest for Waco city 5 per cent bonds. Mr. Caufield is of the opinion he can obtain several bonds of this character from the United States Bonding and Mortgage company.

Meeting of Baraca Union. The Baraca-Philathea City Union met at the Morrow Street Methodist church last night for its regular monthly meeting, and carried out a very fine program. The meeting was opened by the singing of "Power in the Blood," followed by prayer by A. D. Porter.

Miss Irene Perry gave a violin solo, which was very much enjoyed. Misses Clara, Edith and Ruth Bruyere sang a vocal trio. One of the most valuable numbers on the program was the "round table" discussion, conducted by Douglas Bushnell. The subject was "Young Men and Women at Work for Young Men and Women, Standing by the Bible and Bible School."

Many interesting talks were made on this subject and all seemed to show the real interest these young people have in their work.

Miss Maxwell Johnson gave one of her readings.

Mr. Alexander announced that the program committee had arranged to have the world-wide Baraca-Philathea twenty-third annual celebration at the Central Presbyterian church, next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Bates McKinney made a very interesting report of what was being done towards advertising the "Round-Up" convention for Waco next year.

Brook Avenue Baraca class and the Provident Heights Philathea class were elected to membership in the city union, making a total of twenty-four classes now represented in the city union.

Breeders Will Meet. College Station, Tex., Oct. 14.—The regular annual business meeting of the Texas Horse, Jack and Mule Breeders' association will be held in the livestock building of the Dallas State fair, Thursday, October 30, at 7:30 p. m., according to announcement by Prof. J. C. Burns, president, and who also is professor of animal husbandry at the Agricultural and Mechanical college.

Prof. Burns says that matters of vital importance to the membership will be discussed and acted on at this business meeting and one feature will be the enrollment of new members.

The regular session of the association was held at the Agricultural and Mechanical college last July, when papers and questions vital to the affairs of the members were read.

Princeton Head Not Named. Princeton, N. J., Oct. 14.—No report was made today by the committee of the Princeton theological seminary board of directors and the recommendation of a man for president of the seminary to succeed Dr. Francis L. Patten, who resigned last May. The board met the third Tuesday in January as the day for the election.

Among those being considered for the position are Rev. W. S. McKwen of Pittsburg, Dr. Ross Stevens of Rev. Alfred W. Barr, Baltimore, and Dr. Charles R. Erdman, a professor in the seminary.

Funeral of W. S. Shook. Temple, Oct. 14.—Funeral services for the late W. S. Shook, who was killed in a shooting affray here yesterday, were conducted today from the family residence in Little Rock Baptist cemetery, four miles east of this city, under the auspices of the Women of the World, of which deceased was a member. The dead man was aged 45 years, had resided in Texas since 1880, his parents being residents of Ennis at the present time.

Show Temple Movie. TO GROUP INTO SYNODS

HOUSE OF DEPUTIES OF EPISCOPAL CHURCH PASSES PROPOSAL.

Will Cause Rearrangement of Church Business if Enacted—To Become Active, Must Pass Bishops.

New York, Oct. 14.—One of the governing bodies—the house of deputies—of the Protestant Episcopal church of America, voted today at the triennial general convention of the church to group the dioceses into provinces or synods, eight in number, after the custom that prevailed in the Episcopal church in England.

To become effective this proposed change must receive the confirmation of the house of bishops. Protests against adopting the change were made on the floor of the convention. At previous conventions the question has come up only to be voted down. Three years ago a commission was appointed to consider it and today an affirmative report was presented.

If the canon in enacted as proposed, each group of dioceses and missions will have its own provincial council to the care of which will be committed many subjects of missions, religious education and local problems. Any diocese would have the privilege of remaining out of the province to which it is assigned, but it is considered likely that any province would take such a step.

After a debate of several hours the clerical order voted 65½ to 1½ (3 divided) to adopt the change and the lay order 71-4 to 31-4 (1 divided) in favor. A second session of the commission's report was adopted, reading: "For the purposes of provinces, dioceses and missionary districts shall have synodical rights and privileges." Other sections of the report are to be considered tomorrow.

The house of bishops in executive session today declined to adopt two recommendations presented by a commission appointed three years ago to consider "the relation of the army and navy chaplains to the church." One recommendation suggested placing army and navy chaplains in a separate diocese under a bishop and the other army and navy chaplains should be under a committee of three bishops, including the bishop of Washington as chairman.

First Conference Held. The first of a series of conferences in connection with the general convention with the general convention was held here this afternoon by a joint commission on social service, appointed at the last triennial convention. Bishop Wm. Lawrence of Massachusetts presided.

"The church and industry" was considered today. Bishop J. N. McCormick of Western Michigan, said the church must consider the social conditions of the industrial age. The church and labor need above all things to know each other better," Bishop McCormick declared. "The church must be the friend of the working man, not only in the pulpit but also in the street and in the hall. It should strive to keep the leaders of the cup clean as well as the outside."

Bishops, clergymen and laymen of the house of bishops and the house of deputies held a joint session today to discuss "religious education." Dr. Alexander Mann of Boston, president of the house of deputies, presided. Bishop Thomas P. Taylor of Tennessee, said the church has a great battle to fight among the educated in our colleges. He offered figures tending to show that unbelief in religion is increasing in the state universities.

Bishop David H. Willard of New York cited a necessity for Catholics and Protestants reaching a common ground on which they may meet to devise a system of religious education in the public schools.

George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia, a lay delegate, asserted that without this religious training true education is impossible.

Confesses Murder of Girl But Story Is Not Believed

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Albert Driskell, 20 years old, said to be wanted in connection with the death of Alice Matthews, in Minneapolis, Minn., in April, 1912, was arrested today in Oak Park, a suburb of Chicago.

Driskell is reported to have told the police: "I killed a girl, Alice Matthews, in Minneapolis. I choked her to death and then skipped town."

Story Discredited. Minneapolis, Oct. 14.—The police here do not believe that Albert Driskell, said to have confessed in Chicago today to having murdered Alice Matthews here in April, 1912, is the person who killed the girl. An Albert Driskell, while an inmate of the State Training school at Red Wing in September, 1912, made a similar confession. After an investigation the conclusion was reached that Driskell was suffering from a superstitious imagination. The police do not intend to bring Driskell to Minneapolis.

Say Rains Did But Little Crop Damage

Beaumont, Oct. 14.—Federal demonstration agents from eight Southeast Texas counties met here today and declared that grossly exaggerated reports of damage to crops by recent heavy rains had been sent out. They declared that main crops were but little damaged and that great injury was done by false reports of total crop destruction. They agreed to return home and start a campaign of truth regarding crop conditions through their local commercial bodies.

Old Newspaper Man Dies. Richmond, Ind., Oct. 14.—Daniel W. Surface, aged 77, civil war correspondent for the old Cincinnati Gazette, a pioneer newspaper man of Ohio and Indiana, the former postmaster here, died at his apartment in a local hotel today. Death was due to heart failure. Mr. Surface had been in good health and last Saturday was pallbearer at the funeral of James M. Coe, an old time newspaper associate.

JURY FOR CONSPIRACY CASE

Senator Lorimer and Edward Hines Will Figure in Trial of Detective and Donahue.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—The names of former United States Senator Wm. Lorimer and Edward Hines, millionaire lumberman, will play a part in the trial of Daniel Donahue and Detective Isaac Steifel, charged with conspiring to defame Clarence S. Funk, formerly general manager of the International Harvester company. Over opposition of counsel for the defense, the two names were admitted into the record today when the examination of prospective jurors was begun.

Belmont County Commissioners Meet. Belmont, Tex., Oct. 14.—The regular session of the Belmont County Commissioners' court was held here today and much business transacted, mostly of a routine nature. An appropriation of $2,000 was ordered to come out of the road and bridge funds apportioned to Belmont county, to be expended in building a gravelled pike road connecting the Temple and Belmont pike with the Temple city limits at Thirty-Ninth street and Avenue D. The citizens of Belmont will also contribute to the building of the road. J. G. Childers, who owns a tract of land between the proposed points, appeared before the court and agreed to donate $1,000 in cash and to give the right of way for a first-class road eighty feet in width through his property. Mr. Childers is a resident of Temple.

Remodel Belmont County Court House. Belmont, Tex., Oct. 14.—Work on remodeling and modernizing the court house building is progressing as fast as possible and the contractors expect to be able to finish within contract time. About $25,000 is being spent on the work. Concrete floors, steam heat, new steel vaults, repainting and decorating throughout are among the items included in the specifications. The building is constructed of Belmont limestone, which has become dingy with age, and the contract specifies that the stone is to be cleaned and made like new in appearance.

Secretary Houston Coming. Houston, Oct. 14.—It has been announced here that Dr. David F. Houston of Washington, secretary of the department of agriculture, will attend the meeting of the National Growers' Association, which convenes here November 5 for a three days' session. It is said he will deliver a lecture on pecan culture.

Construction of New Water Plant Progresses Rapidly—Excavations Completed.

People who go and come over the North Fifth street car line may have noticed from the car windows that there seemed to be something doing down at the foot of Vermont street, on the west bank of the Brazos, and everybody has read occasional items about the new waterworks and filtration plant, but it is safe to say that only a few of the people of Waco have the slightest idea of the magnitude of the work that is being done at that point.

A visit to the huge undertaking is like going through a miniature Gator or Culebra cut. Watching the red muddy wavelets of the Brazos roll by, one might feel justified in saying that such water could never be rendered fit to drink, but after being shown how it will be manipulated, the route it will be carried and the pro-

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

HEARTILY ENDORSE CURRENCY BILL

DIRECTORS OF CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE APPROVE BY REFERENDUM VOTE.

IN CONSTRUCTIVE LEGISLATION

In Committee's Report Are Suggested Seven Recommendations of Improvement.

Detroit, Oct. 14.—The greater part of today was devoted to recreation by the directors of the chamber of commerce of the United States, who are meeting here to discuss important legislative matters and business conditions in general.

As guests of the local board of commerce the visitors were entertained at local manufacturing institutions throughout the afternoon and a banquet was given in their honor tonight. It was announced that the referendum vote taken among subsidiary organizations of the chamber of commerce of the United States was overwhelmingly in favor of currency legislation which now is pending in congress, approving by a referendum vote the report of its banking and currency committee on the pending Owen-Glass currency bill.

The board of directors of the chamber in session here completed the canvass of the ballots today and find the sentiment of the business men's organizations strong in favor of the report of the committee, the vote being 303 for and 17 against.

Committee's Report.

The committee in its report, which was made the basis of the referendum, stated:

"Regarding the measure as a piece of constructive legislation and believes that it embodies in a large degree elements necessary to provide the nation with a safe currency and banking system."

Seven recommendations for improvement of the measure were submitted for separate vote. All were approved by large majorities. The separate recommendations were:

"1. In favor of the increase of the federal reserve board to nine members, the two additional members to be chosen by the original members subject to the approval of the president; the compensation of the governor and vice governor to be fixed by the board itself.

"2. Creation of the federal reserve council to be elected by the regional reserve banks, the president and vice president of the council to reside in Washington and to sit at meetings of the federal reserve board, but without vote; their salaries to be fixed and paid by the board.

"3. That in the creation of the new system of regional reserve banks a beginning be made with the present central reserve cities (three in number), the number to be increased gradually by the federal reserve boards as in their judgment conditions warrant.

"4. Concerning note issues: That restriction of the issue of federal reserve notes to $50,000,000 be eliminated; that interest on federal reserve notes be eliminated; that it be made unlawful for any federal reserve bank to pay out any notes but its own; the notes issued being given an identifying number.

"5. The federal reserve notes should not be obligations of the government, but should be redeemable by federal reserve banks and not at the treasury of the United States.

"6. That federal reserve banks mutually guarantee the federal reserve notes providing that said notes shall become a first and permanent lien upon the combined assets of federal reserve banks.

"7. That reserve requirements of the Owen-Glass bill be modified and reduced for both country banks and banks in reserve cities."

COTTON PALACE SALE OPENS

Season Tickets to Be Offered at Four Dollars to Adults and One-fifty to Children.

The sale of season tickets to the Texas Cotton Palace will be put on this morning at 9 o'clock at the publicity department of the Cotton Palace at the Adams hotel, 167-169 North Fourth street, the Old McCalland. The price of the season tickets will be $4; to stockholders a reduction of $1 per ticket is made, making the price of stockholders' season tickets $3. Stock must be fully paid up to take advantage of this reduction. The stock ledger of the Cotton Palace has been sent down to the publicity department of the Cotton Palace to aid them in the sale of stockholders' season tickets.

Cut Prices for Kiddies. The price of children's season tickets will be $1.50 each for children under 15 years of age.

Reserved seats in the coliseum will also be placed on sale, the price of reserved seats being $3 per season. Diagram will be placed with the publicity department.

"The boxes at the Cotton Palace are going very rapidly," said Chairman W. W. Fryer of the gates and ticket committee of the Cotton Palace. "There are only a few left and those desiring boxes will have to hurry."

Arrangements for selling season tickets can be made at the publicity department of the Cotton Palace, at the Adams hotel.

Survey of Guadalupe.

Victoria, Tex., Oct. 14.—Government engineers who have been surveying the Guadalupe river for the second time with a view of placing locks and dams on the stream, have practically completed their task. The operation has been completed at a dam near the mouth of the Colette creek, and two between that point are mentioned in the survey. These dams, if constructed, would insure navigation for five-foot vessels at all times.

Wounded Boy Suffers.

Carl McFarland, the 19-year-old boy who was shot last Friday near Chandler, is in a serious condition, according to reports yesterday. The operation which is necessary to the healing of the wound on the boy's face may be delayed on account of his nervous physical condition. The lad suffers great pain, but the wounds are not in a vital spot.

MITCHELL BANQUET TICKETS

Sale Going Forward Briskly—All Friends of Ad Club President Will Be Welcomed.

Tickets for the dinner to be given by the Waco Ad Club in honor of W. J. Mitchell, president of the organization, went on sale yesterday morning. The ticket selling committee divided into several squads and each were allotted a district.

J. M. Clement, chairman of the committee, was in charge of the work. The first work of the committee will be to offer tickets to all of the Ad Club members. Mr. Clement requests that any member who is not visited by a ticket seller call him over the phone and he will supply them with tickets. Arrangements for the dinner have been completed.

Hirschberg is Toastmaster. Thursday evening next is the date and the State House is the place. 501 Hirschberg will act as toastmaster.

Among the speakers will be Dr. S. P. Brooks, Mayor J. H. Mackey, A. R. McCollum, George Robinson and Dr. F. E. Wynne. The last named is of Dallas.

The sale of tickets yesterday, according to the committee was very rapid.

Friends Will Be Admitted. The dinner is not confined to the Ad Club members, and tickets will be offered to any of Mr. Mitchell's friends who care to be present at the occasion, which is in honor of the work he has done for the club. It was through his activities that Waco sent a large delegation to the last national ad men's meeting, and members of the club feel that his efforts in the interest of the club, which has as its aim the advancement of the city, entitle him to the honor which they expect to bestow on Thursday.

Madam Surson will be at our store Monday, Wednesday and Friday, Graham-Jarrell Co.

SUMNER R. MEAD WRECKED.

Storm Drives Ship into Shoals—Crew Rescued.

Chatham, Mass., Oct. 14.—An unheralded northeast storm early today wrecked the barge Sumner R. Mead, swept Cape Cod and caught the coastwise fleet amid treacherous shoals. Noon saw four schooners on Nantucket shoals, signalling for help. One lumber laden, three-masted schooner, began to fill at her anchorage and the crew was rescued by life-savers. Four miles east another ship was sighted with her colors "union down," while a third was dragging her anchors, and wireless reported a fourth in distress below Sakantay light, Nantucket.

Tug Saves Crew.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Oct. 14.—The barge Sumner R. Mead, which left here for Boston yesterday with the barge Oakland in tow of the tug Paoli, sprang a leak off Whifflet last night and after her crew had been taken off by the tug, was thrown ashore early today on the outside beach of Cape Cod, where she lies a total wreck.

The two men on board the Oakland managed to anchor their craft off

Highland light and, despite a terrific northeast gale, refused to be taken off by the Paoli. The tug returned here this afternoon.

Carnival to Be Larger.

Houston, Oct. 14.—The management of the No-Tou-Oh carnival announces that this fall's exhibition will be the most extensive and best ever conducted in this city. Several thousand dollars is being expended for new buildings, which will be used to meet the increasing demands for exhibit space. One of the many interesting features of the carnival will be the "Made-in-Houston" exhibit, which is being prepared by the local chamber of commerce.

Cotton.

New York, Oct. 14.—The cotton market made new low ground for the movement today, with January contracts selling at 12.68, or 26 points below the close of last Saturday and $5.75 per bale under the high records established just before the publication of the October official cotton figures. Eastern diversions, caused by favorable weather for picking and marketing in the south and talk of easier eastern belt spot markets, appeared to be the factors responsible for the continued liquidation and scattering pressure. Slight rallies occurred at times during the day and there seemed to be a considerable demand on declines, but business tapered off on advances, and while the close was steady, last prices were 16 to 26 points lower. There had been some apprehension on Saturday that this morning's weather news might show frosts in the belt over the two days' adjournment but no temperatures low enough to cause new crop anxiety were reported and there seemed to be a lot of selling orders around the ring at the start.

The opening was 10 to 15 points lower and active months sold 12 to 21 points net lower during the first few minutes. A rally of 8 or 9 points followed on private predictions that a strong barometer reported in the Pacific northwest would bring frost to the belt within the next two or three days, but the market never received no aggressive support and soon eased off under continued liquidation, southern selling and local pressure. As prices broke lower, the early liquidation of a few spot orders was uncovered and active months sold about 20 to 25 points net lower during the afternoon. There was some trading on the decline and it was said that the spinners were calling cotton on a scale downward. Otherwise, however, the buying appeared to be chiefly realizing of recent sales and slight rallies were barely maintained. Domestic mill consumption for the month of September was reported by the census bureau in excess of last year and mill stocks at the end of September were smaller than last season, but the prevailing statistics seemed to be depressed by the increasing new crop receipts.

New Orleans.

New Orleans, Oct. 14.—The cotton market had a rather easy undertone throughout today's session and prices broke to new low levels for the present reaction movement, landing over a cent a pound down from the highest of the season. December and January worked below the 13-cent level. There was much profit-taking by shorts and this steadied the market at the lowest levels and several times during the day brought about small upturns which were not well sustained. Bulls were not aggressive and did not take advantage of features that favored them.

Interlinking Talking Circles

Each Bell telephone is the center of a talking circle to which there are no arbitrary boundaries within the limits of speech transmission.

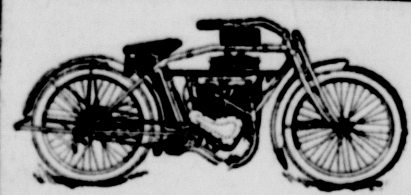

Each central office is a clearing house for telephone talk extending far beyond its own system.

Universal communication means not only intercommunication between subscribers in the same exchange system, and with those in other exchange systems, but also long distance communication with each connected telephone in the Bell system within speaking distance.

There are over 7,500,000 interconnecting Bell telephones, each an open door for telephonic communication, uniting a nation of 92,000,000 people and promoting the happiness, the welfare and the prosperity of all.

Every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance Station.

WILL WRITTEN IN 22 WORDS

J. F. BROD'S LAST TESTAMENT IS A MODEL OF BREVITY.

WALLER S. BAKER'S WILL FILED

Bequeaths His Entire Fortune to His Widow, Mrs. Mary B. Baker, Valued at About $100,000.

The shortest will from the standpoint of words used in its construction filed in the local probate court in some months was put on record yesterday when the last will and testament of J. F. Brod was recorded for probate. The will was written upon a prescription blank of an East Waco drug concern.

It was as follows, dated September 19, 1913:

"It is my desire, in case I should die, that all my real estate and personal property shall go to my wife."

The will is properly signed. It was witnessed by L. A. Langston, M. B. Saunders and W. A. Southland. Mr. Brod executed the instrument three weeks before his death. He had suffered for some time from kidney trouble, and had undergone an operation five weeks prior to making the will. Mrs. Martha Brod, the wife, to whom all property is assigned, is named as independent executrix.

Will of Waller S. Baker. The last will and testament of Waller S. Baker, Waco attorney, who died suddenly in San Francisco, Cal., September 9, was filed for probate yesterday.

The will bequeaths all his property, personal, real estate and otherwise to his wife, Mary B. Baker. The will was dated September 14, 1911. Mrs. Baker is nominated as independent executrix of the estate without bond. The value of the estate is not stated in the will, but it is estimated by friends to amount to $100,000. The property consists principally of bank stock, real estate and notes.

Thirty-Two True Bills. The McLennan county grand jury, reconvened on Monday, returned thirty-two true bills. These consisted of thirty-one felonies and one misdemeanor. This makes a total of sixty-two bills returned by the body. Thirty of these were returned before adjournment of two weeks. The jury is still in session and may not complete its labors until the latter part of the week. Indictments made public yesterday were: Harry Beatty, George Lawson and Lon Shelley, theft over $50; M. Derrin, theft from the person; Ward Stevens, theft from the person; George Lawson, burglary; Francisco Ramirez, burglary; and Joe Martinez, assault to murder.

TRAVELER'S AID STATION MATRON

MRS. FRENCH OF KANSAS CITY ENGAGED BY WACO FEDERATION.

GUIDE AND FRIEND FOR GIRLS

She Will Arrive Next Month and Begin Her Duties Nov. 20—History of the Great Movement.

Mrs. French of Kansas City has been engaged for the office of railroad station matron by the ladies of Waco, who have charge of the Travelers' Aid movement, and will arrive in Waco the middle of next month. She is expected to have the work in hand by November 20.

The executive committee of the Federation of Waco Missionary Societies, under whose management the Travelers' Aid work has been instituted, met yesterday at the home of Mrs. R. B. Spencer, president of the Federation. Those present were Mesdames Walter Reese, Bessie Nettles, J. C. Lattimore, J. J. Greene, Hays, O. E. Arbuckle, Miss Ada Risher and Miss Jackson.

To Act as Guide and Friend. It is thought probable that Mrs. French will make her office in the Cotton Belt station. However, she will meet trains coming into the Katy station also. Mrs. French comes from Kansas City with a most excellent record, having been engaged in mission work in that city for some time.

To Watch Our Travelers. The Travelers' Aid Society of Waco is affiliated with and a part of the great movement for the protection of women and girls traveling alone, which was launched several years ago.

For the greater safeguarding of the tens of thousands of women and girls who travel unprotected in the United States, each year steps are now being taken to secure co-operation among the thirty-two organizations in cities of the country which have paid workers and the 244 whose services are given voluntarily. The former class is headed by the Travelers' Aid Society of New York City, of which Gilbert Colgate is president; John Wamaker, a former president, and Miss Grace H. Dodge, chairman of the executive committee. The ultimate intention is to form a national organization which will include all the independent societies of the kind in the United States.

1,700 Afloat in 1910. The importance of the work is shown by the fact that in 1910, according to the data of the immigration league of Chicago, 1,700 women and girls on their way from New York City to Chicago never reached their destination. In 1908, and last year 955. Orin C. Baker, general secretary of the society, has just returned from a visit to thirty-four states in the union and four provinces in Canada, made for the purpose of bringing about co-operation among the organizations devoted to the work.

Mr. Baker found everywhere willingness to join with the New York society in measures to secure co-operation in the work of protecting travelers. In San Diego, where an exposition by Pacific coast states is to be held in 1915, and in San Francisco, where the Panama-Pacific exposition is to take place in the same year.

Appetite Ho! Ho! 'Tis a Great Joy

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Are the Best Appetite Makers Dyspeptics and Stomach Sufferers Can Use.

Appetite is very largely a series of signals from the stomach. When one has a rousing appetite at the sight or smell of food the stomach through its connection with the mind of man is asked whether the food seen or smelled would be welcome. The stomach if healthy says yes and sends the message "Mouth Water." If hungry from desire—keenly, restlessly hungry. If the stomach be sick, then we have no appetite and are actually nauseated.

Waiter—"How's your appetite today, sir?"

Guest—"Bully good. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets make me eat like a horse."

Appetite makes the glands of the mouth open and saliva flows very freely—hence the term "Mouth Water." This is the first digestive juice. It has an important office to perform as all starchy foods are partially digested by it because one of its ingredients, ptyalin, acts almost an instant digestive of starch. This process reduces the starch in foods to sugar.

The appetite causing a free flow of saliva aids the stomach by its ability to mix the food eaten with mouth juices which enables it to more readily do its work.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets go into the mouth like food are eaten, then dissolved and fluidized by the saliva. This mass then goes into the stomach and there quickly readjusts the stomach juices so that in a short time food is not offensive and man's appetite comes speedily back to him and he is hungry in a healthy, normal way.

By all means use a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet the very moment you feel a loss of hunger. The quick return of appetite to you will convince you that your stomach has been put out of order and that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets were the means of restoring its normally healthy condition.

Every druggist carries Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and no matter where you may be you can always obtain a box anywhere for 50 cents.

OUR POLICY "THE PUBLIC BE PLEASED"

ORDINANCE HELD UP

MAYOR MACKAY HAS NOT YET SIGNED PEDDLER CAR MEASURE.

His Honor Wants Peddling Restricted to Limited Bounds—Commission in Session.

The ordinance passed by the city commission some days ago and which has as its object the elimination of box car peddling on railroad property and also prevents the sale of lunches, melons, fruits or other commodities on depot grounds and property and on passenger coaches within the city limits, by peddlers, was held up and will be reconsidered by the city commission.

The ordinance caused much discussion pro and con when presented, because of an ordinance passed by the retailers which had as its aim the elimination of peddling in all parts of the city.

Mayor Will Not Sign. Mayor James H. Mackay yesterday morning announced that he had not signed the ordinance because of a clause which he believes places the matter too much in the hands of the railroad companies and takes all authority from the city government.

As drafted the ordinance permits such peddling on railroad property only on condition that the railroad company give written permission for such use of its property. The mayor believed that should be restricted and the peddling on only depot grounds, depot property and passenger coaches should be permitted, and this only on written permission from the railroad companies. City Attorney Maxwell will make the necessary addition to the ordinance and it will be again called up.

Need of Co-Operation. The large scope of the work of these societies everywhere has clearly established the need of co-operation, and the Travelers' Aid society, by reason of its experience in meeting and solving the various problems which consequently present themselves and the fact that it has at its command a large force of workers, is taking the lead in the movement toward national co-operation.

HIGH WATER HALTS THE WORK

Lock and Dam Construction Will Not Be Resumed Probably for a Month.

Work on the government lock and dam below Waco has been discontinued on account of the continued high water in the river, and reports yesterday indicated that it will be two weeks or a month before the construction work can be pushed again.

Approximately a depth of fourteen feet of mud has been piled up in the lock by the overflows, and it will take weeks after the rise subsides to dig out the deposits.

Small Force at Work. The coffee-dam, are still being overflown and there is no hope of continuance of construction until the rise ceases. At present the working force has been cut down to fifteen men, who are used in keeping up the works and unloading new material.

36 GET REBATES ON FINES

Were You Multitasked for Stopping Your Vehicle in Forbidden Space? Get Your $4.

City Recorder J. G. Wren has announced that four dollars will be refunded to all those who were fined five dollars for stopping vehicles on the forbidden space on the Fifth street side of Powers-Kelly Drug store.

When the fines were assessed it was thought that five dollars was the minimum. Later investigation showed that the minimum is one dollar. Judge Wren says that all the thirty-six persons who were fined five dollars for violation of this ordinance may receive back the difference from Chief of Police Leslie Barron.

The good fortune of the thirty-six persons who will collect rebates is unprecedented in this city if not in the whole state. The money will be refunded on demand.

REPORT ON DEEP SEWER.

Received From City Engineer By the Commission and Filed.

The city commission yesterday morning received and filed a report of City Engineer George Byars as to a proposed deep sewer main in the alley between Austin and Franklin streets from Eighth street to the river, without taking action on the matter.

Mr. Byars' report was made in compliance with a request. The matter had previously been taken up by a local business organization, in an effort to devise some method by which a sewer could be constructed to care for the basement of large buildings now under construction in the downtown district, and at the same time conform to plans which are yet to be made for a sewage disposal plant. A report was made previously by a committee appointed from the commercial organization. The commission yesterday took the stand that it did not care to expend any great sum on a main that might have to be abandoned in the event the disposal plant is not located at some point where the main could be used in the sewer system that will connect with that plant. So Mr. Byars' report was filed, and the matter is still in abeyance.

LET BRIDGE CONTRACT TODAY.

Steel Structure Will Span Salt Creek in Short Time.

Contract for the construction of a steel bridge over Salt creek, on the county line road between Atterell and Mart, will be let by the county commissioners today. The commission will let the bridge on the condition that the contractor will be required to advertise for bids at last month's meeting.

The session of the commission yesterday was routine. Commissioner Smith was authorized to purchase a road scraper for use in his precinct.

The report of County Treasurer Lon Wertham was received and approved. Bills to the amount of about $12,000 were approved.

The board also reconstructed the field notes which lay out Woodlawn school district. A survey of the district some years ago was made and a mistake in running the line was discovered a short time ago. Notice of the commission was called to the mistake by the Mooreville school trustees. The error was ordered corrected.
